Women May Preach
Colored Race Diminishing
Why So Many Suicides?
U. S. Army Up 30,000 Feet

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THE PRESBYTERY OF NEW YORK voted yesterday, 51 to 29, admitting women to Presbyterial pulpits. Reverend ladies will now proceed to prove that Samual Johnson was wrong when he said a woman preaching was like a dog standing on its hind legs. It is not that she does it well, but you wonder she does it at all.

Good preaching depends on sincerity, and that is woman's specialty.

Uncle Sam's census shows the colored population of the United States diminishing. The percentage of Negro population, in the census, will be the lowest on record, and that percentage now is only half what it was in 1790.

But this need not discourage Americans of African descent. If, after we die we return to earth, to continue working here, as many believe, that means a large percentage of colored people must come back in white bodies, with a better chance, in our prejudiced white civilization.

Thousands of miles away, in New York, a rich young Harvard student and a prosperous woman more than 80 years old, killed themselves.

In London, the Duchess of Leinster is sent to prison for trying to kill herself.

Life is short enough, hope is never gone, duty is not fully discharged, until death takes us.

And everybody appearing in the next world will feel foolish if obliged to say, "I killed myself," when asked, "How did you come here?"

London forecasts of the "Doom of Battleships."

They were doomed long ago, when Gen. Mitchell, best flying officer in our army, dismissed for telling too much truth, proved that two men in a $45,000 airship can sink a $50,000,000 battleship with a 1000-man crew.

Last Saturday in California, under the direction of Brig.-Gen. Gillmore, 19 planes of the United States army flew in perfect formation to an altitude of 30,000 feet, almost five miles up, with the temperature 40 degrees below zero.

The most important thing about that wonderful achievement is this: Army officers, those that would minimize the importance of the airplane to uphold old-fashioned methods, admit that flying at such a height it would be utterly impossible for any anti-aircraft artillery to injure the flying machines.

It is time for the great engineering ability of the United States, led by the able engineer in the White House, to concentrate on airplanes and submarines, realizing that battleships and other floating ships have gone to join the hansom cab and the dodo.

W. K. Whitfield wants everybody to know that the Mediterranean fly has disappeared from Florida, only two samples of the larvae found in the entire state since last August. Mr. Whitfield represents 70,000 acres of Florida citrus fruit.

W. J. Howey, representing 60,000 citrus fruit acres in Lake county, Florida, says the fly has vanished, anyhow, it wouldn't amount to much. They have had it in Spain for nearly a century, yet today Spain produces 30,000,000 boxes of oranges against Florida's 9,000,000 to 13,000,000 boxes.

Good news from one part of the country is good news for all of the country.

TINKHAM PINS SLUSH FUND ON 'DRYS'

Flays Anti-Saloon League as Lawbreaker and Tells of Huge Sum to Aid Hoover

Washington, April 15 (AP)—A charge that the Anti-Saloon League has repeatedly violated the Federal corrupt practice act, was made today before the Senate lobby committee by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts.

Saying the league had collected and expended $67,565,313 from 1884 to 1926 inclusive, Tinkham testified that only "nominal returns" had been made to the clerk of the House of Representatives of the sums used for "political" purposes.

Tinkham, an anti, demanded that the committee obtain the names of at least the larger contributors. He said these had never been made public.

WANTS CANNON GRILLED

He also requested the committee summon Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the books and papers of the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, of which Cannon is chairman.

Cannon has informed the committee he would be glad to appear with any information desired.

Tinkham already has requested that the committee investigate the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Federal Council of Churches.

He presented the committee with a table intended to show money

Detroit, April 15 (INS)—A holdup which netted him 65 cents drew a five to twenty-year sentence for Anthony Hajasz in Judge Henry S. Sweeny's recorder's court on a robbery while armed charge.

Hajasz came here from Cleveland, he said. In Detroit only a few days, he held up James J. Hayes, who operates a drug store, and, according to police, fled with his small loot.

Supreme Court to Then Hear Arguments Growing Out of Farrar's Dismissal

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The question of whether the liquor purchaser is equally guilty with the bootlegger will be argued before the Supreme Court on April 28.

Chief Justice Hughes announced today that the court would hear arguments then in the Government's appeal in the test case of James E. Farrar from Boston.

On the same day, the court will hear arguments in the case from Philadelphia in which the Government is contending that the purchaser is guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws when he gives orders to a bootlegger which results in the transportation of liquor to him.

In the Farrar case, the Federal district court set aside the indictment on the ground that the provisions of the national prohibition act, prohibiting the purchase of liquor without a permit, applied only to purchases by others.

The Government contended, however, that any purchaser without a permit is illegal and tha tthe purchaser without a permit may be punished.

Charge Quigley Asked $7500 in 'Graft'

Ex-Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley Chelsea was charged with demanding a "cut" of $7500 for garbage and ash contract at the resumed hearings in the so-called Chelsea graft case today.

The charge were made by Haley according to the testimony of Mayor John J. Whalen, present head of the city government, under examination by his counsel, Atty. Frank P. Deland.

Mayor Whalen testified that during the course of a conversation with Haley, who formerly held the garbage and ash removal contract the latter told him of the alleged demand by former Mayor Quigley, and also of alleged indiscretions with Haley's divorced wife.

"The conversation took place on December 20, 1929," said the witness. "Haley told me he had Quigley in his power because of certain things which had happened in the past. He threatened to expose Quigley and said he would give him a mark he would carry to his grave.

The estate was revealed today with the filing of Newton's will in probate court.

No reason was given for the bequest to Strafford and since Newton had avoided contact with others for many years, no one could say whether he once lived in that village.

There were two other specific bequests. One of $500 to Bessie Preston of West Manchester, Vt., and the other of like amount to Jennie R. Staples of this city. The residue, Newton directed, will go to heirs-at-law, who were not named.

CAPTAIN HAS TO CONFESS NEGLIGENCE IN OFFICE

Reveals Pump Seized in Raid Was "Loaned" to Garrett's Hingham Farm

The pensioning of Oliver B. Garrett, police liquor raider, for an old injury and at a time when he was under charges, was based in part on false and inaccurate premises, Capt. George W. Patterson, commander of the Boston police vice squad, admitted today.

The vice squad leader was an uneasy witness as the public hearings of the attorney-general's investigation of Garrett resumed before a crowd at the State House.

He admitted he was negligent. He admitted Garrett's application for pension, stating he had been out sick 51 days as a result of an auto accident on August 2, 1927, was false. He admitted that the vice squad records of Garrett's duty, submitted in support of his pension claim, was "largely inaccurate."

He shifted uneasily under Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall's pointed questioning.

Patterson claimed that he twice visited Garrett's Pine Grove farm at Hingham to investigate his illness, but admitted he had negligently failed to make out reports of his investigation in accordance with a rule of the department.

Hall attempted to show that Patterson's admission that he had no control over Garrett was because the liquor raider, only a patrolman, was closer to Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson than his captain.

Patterson denied that he knew this to be so, but could offer no other explanation for an admitted remark that he could not control Garrett.

FULLER'S REPORT

Patterson denied having seen the State Police report of their investigation of Garrett, a report sent to Wilson by former Governor Fuller. Wilson had testified he showed it to Patterson.

From the vice squad record book it was shown that on Sept. 17, 1927, Garrett was absent from duty because of illness and from the same book another entry was read into the records showing that on Oct. 8, 1927, Garrett was given a day off because he worked Sept. 17.

"A clerical error is all that I can say," remarked Patterson.

The records of the book were all jumbled up as regards the days Garrett was sick following his accident and Patterson finally admitted that on days when it was recorded the raider was out sick, he may have been working, "off and on."

Like Commissioner Wilson, who contented himself with Capt. Patterson's reports on "investigations" of graft charges against Garrett, the captain himself was contented with denials by Garrett and the alleged to have paid him for protection of liquor traffic over the six-year period the Garrett family banked nearly $123,000.

He admitted he had planted marked bills on other officers accused of taking graft, but that he never planted any bills on Garrett.

CROWLEY'S ORDER

An order from Supt. Michael H. Crowley to Patterson for an investigation of reports that Garrett was selling milk from the Pine Grove Farm to Boston bootleggers and vice resorts was read as of record, September 10, 1927.

The extent of his investigation,

PATTERSON GRILLED ABOUT GARRETT'S ABSENCE FROM DUTY

ADMITS THAT HE HAD BEEN NEGLIGENT

made on the superintendent's order, comprised a visit to the farm. Mrs. Garrett's denial that her husband was interested in the place and Patterson's "standing in the yard, looking around." The spectators enjoyed the description of this "probe."

"What else did you do?" Hall asked and Patterson answered:

"Nothing that was all I could do."

Hall then sprang a surprise by asking if Patterson hadn't had "direct information" before going to the farm that Garrett was interested in it. The captain denied it.

Letters were then introduced showing that the Wayne Engineering and Manufacturing Co. had written Commissioner Wilson regarding the seizure by Garrett of one of its pumps during a raid in East Boston and offered to buy the pump.

Commissioner Wilson replied that the pump was in the possession of hte federal authorities, but further correspondence revealed it was loaned to Garrett for us on the Hingham farm.

In the face of this disclosure, Capt. Patterson persisted in his denial that he was aware Garrett was interested in the dairy.

He was sincere he claimed when he told the Legislative rules committee that the barn on the Garrett farm, since shown to have cost $12,000, was "one of those $800 mail order structures."

His admitted negligence had to do with his confessed failure to make written reports of his investigation of the illness Garrett claimed following the 1927 injury on which he based his successful claim for pension.

"I was negligent," he said. "I just kept it on another form. I have letters dealing with that."

CALLS FOR LETTERS

"There are only two visits which you say you made to Garrett and they are not on the sick investigating reports?"

The vice squad leader answered: "I was negligent in not making a report on those forms."

"It was rather unusual, too?" asked Hall with slight irony.

"Yes," Capt. Patterson admitted.

"You can't give any reason why Garrett wasn't reported by you except that you were negligent?"

Patterson answered: "Yes," but evidently meant, "No."

Hall then ordered him to get, at recess, the notes and letters which he said he had made regarding his investigation of Garrett's illness.

It then developed that Capt. Patterson had also failed to differentiate in the records between the days that Garrett reported sick and the days of his vacation and time off for overtime.

There was a discrepancy between Garrett's claim that he was ill 51 days and Patterson's claim that he was sick 40 days.

"So that when the pension application was filed showing Garrett was 51 days sick it wasn't true?" Hall asked.

"No, sir," Patterson admitted.

"Why didn't you make a record of the days he was reported as working and the days you say he was ill?"

"Well," replied Patterson, "he asked to be permitted to take his vacation on account of sickness."

Patterson admitted there was no record of that request.

"HONEST MISTAKE"

Then, in answer to several questions, the vice squad commander admitted that in order to reach the 40-day total of Garrett's absence from illness, it had been necessary to add in 21 days, 14 for vacation and seven for time off for overtime work.

Patterson and Hall became tangled up in figures trying to decide how many days Garrett had really been out because of sickness, and the tangle ended with the admission by Patterson that Garrett's pension application showing 51 days sick as a result of the on-duty accident in 1927, was untrue.

This application followed Garrett's injury in an off-duty accident while driving horses at Marshfield Fair soon after he had been ordered transferred from the liquor squad.

"There was an honest mistake somewhere," commented Capt. Patterson.

"But how could that happen?" Hall protested.

"Well," said the witness, "Mr. Savage, a clerk in Capt. Harriman's office, came up to me and said, 'How long was Garrett off on sick leave?' and without consulting any records I just said, 'I think about 40 days.'"

"Honest mistake or not, it was a slack way to handle things of that kind," commented Hall, and Patterson agreed he might be right.

Hall referred to the hearing given by the Legislative Rules Committee on the question of ordering the present investigation as "eulogy day" for the police department, and Patterson admitted he had not disagreed with any of the eulogies.

Hall next referred to Patterson's statement that he had no control over Garrett, made before the rules committee, and his statement, "You don't know what I'm up against," made to Lieut. Carey in explanation of the report he sent to Commissioner Wilson regarding Carey's trouble with Garrett in the Mattapan division.

Hall questioned at great length for an explanation of these remarks. Patterson said he could give no reason for his statement to the legislative committee, but that he made the remark to Carey with reference to department rules which required he make a report on the altercation.

"Wasn't the true explanation that Garrett was closer to Wilson than you were?" Hall asked.

"No," replied Patterson. "I didn't know Garrett was close to the commissioner—I didn't know that I was."

"Can you give us any other reason for these statements than that Garrett was closer to the commissioner than you were?"

"No," said Patterson.

Patterson then denied he had seen Governor Fuller's report of the state police investigation of Garrett, which was sent to Commissioner Wilson.

The commissioner had testified he showed the report to Patterson.

Garrett was not present as the hearing began. Supt. Michael H. Crowley was on hand to follow Patterson on the witness stand.

INCORPORATED FARM

Atty. James I. Yoffe, the first witness, testified that at the request of James P. Maguire he wrote out the incorporation papers for the Pine Grove farm at Hingham.

Mrs. Margaret M. Maguire, widow of the Maguire referred to said her husband had been counsel for Garrett. Although Garrett was the only policeman among her husband's clients, she said she had seen him talk with Officer Daley a member of Garrett's raiding squad.

Patterson was the next witness. He has been a member of the police force 37 years and a captain five.

He testified he had disclosed his entire property holdings and every source of his income during the last five years to the attorney-general's auditors.

Atty. Hall introduced the journal in which the vice squad activities are kept. Patterson said he examined it from time to time to see if it was accurate.

Asked if he had occasion to question the accuracy of the entries, Patterson replied:

"My impression is that I did."

"In what respect?" asked Hall.

"That the names of men taking part in the raids were left out."

Hall then look up entries of August 2, 1927, the day on which Garrett suffered the injuries which formed the basis of his successful pension claim nearly three years later.

SIX ON VACATION

Hall pointed out entries running to August 8 and beyond which showed that Garrett reported for duty daily except on the day following the accident, an automobile crash in the Back Bay.

On August 16 it appeared, six members of the liquor unit went on vacation. Lieut. Daniel H. Hines reported back on the 29th. On the following day, Garrett and Raiders Laidlaw, Daley, Welby and Fortin returned.

On Sept. 3, a month from the day of the accident, Garrett was shown to have reported sick.

"Up to and including Sept. 20?" Hall asked

"Yes," was the reply.

On Sept. 21, it appeared, Garrett reported for work at 9 a. m. and remained on duty until 5 p. m.

"And thereafter he was on duty until he had an operation on his nose—was entered as on his next vacation?" asked Hall.

"As far as I know, yes," replied Patterson.

The new vacation was for overtime work, it developed.

U. S. AGREES TO NAVY INCREASE PART OF PACT

Now in Accord With Britain on "Escalator Clause," Which Is Protective Measure

London, April 15 (AP) The American and British naval delegations today reached an agreement regarding the so-called safeguarding or "escalator" clause for the naval treaty by which powers signing the trilateral limitation pact may protect themselves against competitive building by non-signatories.

The clause, it was understood, will be considerably broader than Article XXI, of the Washington treaty, resigned for a similar purpose. By its provisions the navy of any of the three signatory powers may be increased to meet increases in navies of non-signatory powers, with resulting raising of the levels of the other two signatory powers.

An American spokesman described the agreement as "virtually completed," and said that it was reached by Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald just before the premier left for Scotland to spend the Easter holidays.

It was understood the only remaining feature to be settled is the wording of the treaty.

Naval Officials See Folly in Naval Agreement

Washington, April 15 Profound dissatisfaction was informally expressed in high ranking naval circles following the first exhaustive study made of the London three-power treaty. Official reaction will be withheld until the definitive text of the treaty has been made public.

Several American naval authorities, many of them heretofore associated with the Geneva or Washington conferences, examined the London treaty and found it wanting. The following points of weakness were indicated by American naval officers who declined to be identified until the authoritative clauses of the conference have been published:

First, five and perhaps even eight of the scheduled 15 cruiser program have been sacrificed.

Second, Great Britain has succeeded in forcing American acceptance of the six-inch gun cruiser, a type declared by Ambassador Gibson at Geneva to be "unacceptable."

Third, Japan has derived the great advantage from the conference, its representatives having won the increased ratio of 10-10-7 which Secretary Stimson had repeatedly said would not be allowed

50 Planes Search for Missing Flier

New York, April 15 (AP)—Airmen held out little hope today for the safety of Ralph White, student pilot, who vanished in a fog during a solo practice flight over Long Island.

White went up Sunday from Curtiss airport, L. I., with sufficient fuel for only four hours' flight.

Fifty other planes searched yesterday without finding a trace of him.

Officials of the New York Theater League, managers, producers, actors, playwrights and ticket brokers, announced Smith had agreed to represent the public on the board of governors of the league formed to regulate the sale of tickets and curb speculation.

SAYS GARRETT PENSION WAS BASED ON UNTRUE RECORDS

The first witness at the Garrett hearing today was Attorney James I. Yoffe, who testified that at the request of James P. Maguire he wrote the incorporation papers for the Pine Grove dairy.

Mrs. Margaret M. Maguire, widow of James P. Maguire, said her husband had been counsel for Oliver B. Garrett, and she had seen him with her husband at his office on Hanover st. many times.

She testified her late husband had been friendly with George Martin, proprietor of an Arch st. drug store, and Martin was a client of her husband.

Garrett was the only police officer among her husband's clients, she said, but she admitted having seen her husband talking with Officer Daley, a member of Garrett's liquor squad, at Pemberton sq.

Capt. George W. Patterson was called. Questioned by Hall as to his finances, Capt. Patterson disclosed every source of revenue he had during the past five years, and his entire property holdings. Atty. Hall produced a book which Capt. Patterson identified as a journal kept in the liquor and narcotic squad office containing the doings of that unit. He said he examined this journal from time to time to see that it was accurately kept.

Hall—Q.—Did you ever have occasion to question the accuracy of entries in this book? A.—I went over it with a clerk at different times and my impression is that I did question it.

NAMES WERE LEFT OUT

Q.—In what respect? A.—That the names of men taking part in raids were left out. Atty. Hall questioned him as to entries on the date of August 2, 1927, the date on which Garrett and other officers were injured in an automobile accident on which Garrett based his claim for pension due to injuries.

Hall then pointed out entries running up to August 8 and beyond which show that Garrett reported for duty daily with the exception of the day following the accident, on which day he was confined to his home.

Patterson continued his testimony by checking up with Hall on the working days of Oliver B. Garrett and other members of the liquor unit. Coming down to the date of Aug. 16, Capt. Patterson explained that was the time the six members of the liquor unit went on their vacation of 14 days with extra days off for overtime. The record showed the men were off on Aug. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27.

Q.—And on Aug. 30 the vacation period ended? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—So that on August 30 Officers Laidlaw, Garrett, Daily, Welby, Fortin and the other returned from their vacation? A.—Yes.

GARRETT SICK

Q.—Now, on September 3, month from the day of the auto accident, you find a report of Garrett being sick? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Up to and including Sept. 20? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now on Sept. 21 Garrett reported for work at 9 a. m. and remained until 5 p. m.? A.—Yes.

Q.—And thereafter he was on duty daily until he had the operation on his nose—was entered on his next vacation? A.—As far as I know, yes.

Q.—And that was for working overtime? A.—Yes, he was working very much overtime.

Q.—You have a form for cases of sickness investigated? A.—Yes sir.

Capt. Patterson declared it is a rule of the department which must be followed religiously, that an officer must report immediately to his commanding officer, personally or by messenger, or otherwise, if he is ill.

Questioned as whether or not he had visited Pine Grove farm to determine the condition of Garrett, Patterson admitted having been there twice for that purpose.

Says Garrett Was Not Competent to Book Prisoners

Oliver B. Garrett "didnt' know enough" to book prisoners, according to Capt. George W. Patterson, his superior on the headquarters liquor and vice squad at the hearing today.

"Booking is a science in itself, o ran art," the captain explained.

The crowd tittered.

RATHER UNUSUAL

Q.—I want to know now if there is any report about those visits and what you found out? A.—I was negligent. I just kept it on another form. I have letters dealing with that.

Q.—Have you them here? A.—They ought to be in the files, I haven't them here.

Q.—It was rather unusual wasn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why didn't you put the account of your visits to Pine Grove Farm and what you found out about Garrett on the sick investigation reports? A.—Well, I've got them on another—in the letters.

Q.—So that when Garrett was injured at the Marshfield Fair on August 19 the rule was followed which began with the report made by his superior officer at that time, Lieut. McDevitt? A.—Yes.

Q.—Well, how did you act on the report? A.—I just carried a general report of it. I was negligent.

Q.—You can't give any explanation why Garrett wasn't reported by you except that you were negligent? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, Captain, you say that he was only sick 40 days? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And it says in the pension application that he was sick 51 days? How did you figure that out? A.—From the days he was out on his vacation and the extra days, because when he was going on his vacation he told me he was ill.

Q.—Did you draw up that report in the journal of the days that he was ill? A.—My clerk drew up that report from the journal, the witness replied, nodding toward the report lying on the table.

THOSE SICK DAYS

Q.—Why didn't you make a record of the days that he was reported as working and the days you say he was ill? A.—Well, he asked to be permitted to take his vacation on account of sickness.

Q.—Any record of that? A.—No, sir.

Patterson was questioned at length about his alleged negligence in not tabulating the days that Garrett was supposed to be sick.

Q.—So that in order to get 40 days, which you say your clerk has computed, you had to add in 14 days and overtime? A.—Seven days he was off for overtime.

Q.—So that makes 21 days? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—So Capt. Patterson, when the pension application was filed showing that Garrett was 51 days sick, following the accident at the Marshfield Fair, it wasn't true? A.—No, sir.

Following a pause, Capt. Patterson said with reference to the last answer, "There was an honest mistake somewhere."

Q.—How could that happen? A.—Well, Mr. Savage, a clerk in Capt. Harriman's office came up to me and said: "How long was Garrett off on sick leave?" and without consulting any records, I just said, "I think about 40 days."

ADMITS SLACKNESS

Capt. Patterson admitted certain matters in his department were handled in a slack way. He declared, however, he concealed nothing from the rules committee of the Legislature at the hearing when he, ership in a valuable matter of public service. It presents in concrete and definite form the demand of the small salaried man for relief from an unjust burden put upon him.

"The present system of taxation is practically a holdover from war time. With the war 10 years behind us, taxation should be on a peace footing. The state could well follow in the footsteps of the federal government, which has made several reductions.

"Any suggestion to lower the exemptions on small salaried men will be strongly resisted. These wage earners are now paying more than their share of taxes indirectly in rents and general living expenses."

ROY V. COLLINS, president of the Newton Board of Aldermen—"The sentiments expressed in the Boston Evening American editorial favoring the elimination of the tax on small incomes sound reasonable.

"At present the people have a double burden to bear, due to the taxes imposed on incomes by both the state and the federal government. It constitutes a double tax on almost the same thing.

"However, before any change is made, constructive ideas ought to be considered as to a means of raising the revenue in another way, as there is a certain amount of money that the state must have to carry on its work. There seems to be a general feeling of unrest over the present state income tax law.

LOUIS BARRASSO, assistant secretary to Mayor James M. Curley, and secretary of the Shawmut Credit Union: "For some years past the small wage earner has been the chief sufferer under the present State Income Tax system.

"It seems terribly unfair that a man earning a small salary and with several children to support should be taxed in this manner,

"I am one of those who believe that incomes of less than at least $4000 a year should be exempt from all forms of taxation.

"It is inconceivable that the sum of only $250 a year should be allowed for the support of a child. Every family man in the Commonwealth knows that this sum is wholly inadequate, and that as soon as the boy and girl reach school age, the expense of his or her support is far in excess of th t sum.

"The burden should not be placed upon the man of modest means, and it is with pleasure that I lend my whole-hearted endorsement to the Boston American's campaign to correct this unfair condition."

WILLIAM BALKIN, Dorchester merchant—"Taxation on wage earners has been wrong for quite some time and should be adjusted.

"A small store owner is taxed for the stock in his store, although it is his own personal property. The smallest assessment will be $100.

"I think this unfair. I heartily agree with the sentiment of the Boston Evening American, and trust that it will continue with the good work."

SECRECY MAKES NAVAL PACT FUTILE, SAYS BRITISH EXPERT

BUILDING OF MORE SHIPS FORECAST

Lieut.-Com. Kenworthy, Laborite M. P., Sees French, Italians Embittered

(Comdr. Kenworthy, able Laborite, entered the House of Commons first in 1919 as a Liberal. During the World War he commanded H. M. S. Bullfinch and served on the Admiralty war staff. Indefatigable in debate, he now strikes at the treaty to be signed at the London naval conference, despite his party allegiance to Prime Minister MacDonald.)

By LIEUT.-COMDR. J. M. KENWORTHY, R. N., M. P.

London, April 15—The so-called disarmament conference now drawing to a close with the fove-power and three-power treaty to be signed, has been a farrago of futilities.

The way to set about the problem of naval reduction and limitation was to discuss openly and publicly the use of navies; why these great and expensive forces were required and what is their purpose.

Instead, the delegates at the London conference acted as if they innocently supposed that, by merely discussing the strength of navies, their purpose could be achieved.

As a result, Franco-Italian relations have been embittered and a three-power treaty to build MORE ships—not less—will be signed.

SECRET DIPLOMACY

Let us examine the reasons for these extraordinary results of the disarmament conference.

First, though not most important, was the return to the worst methods of secret diplomacy. All discussions of any importance occurred behind closed doors in the sitting-rooms of West End hotels or in the Old World atmosphere of St. James' Palace.

The proposed new treaty will inaugurate an era of armament building, rather than disarmament.

Britain and America will maintain fleets of 15 battleships each at the annual cost of maintenance alone of bewteen $35,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Financially embarrassed Japan will maintain nine superdreadnaughts, with an annual charge of $25,000,000.

There is no valid reason why these battle fleets could not be cut in half, without alteration of relative strength, but with an immense saving to taxpayers.

Cruisers parity between Britain and the United States has been achieved at last, but at what a cost!

By the forthcoming treaty, Britain will maintain 50 cruisers of a total of 339,000 tons, and must build only 12,500 tons to achieve this.

The United States must build 182,000 cruiser tons, which will cost $146,000,000.

KEEL FOR KEEL

But these figures are only tentative under the "escalator clause" incorporated in the treaty.

The British Admiralty maintains that, while granting parity to America, they must watch the continent, and the sea lords have insisted on the right to lay down, keel for keel, for every French and Italian cruiser commenced.

Those two, who are fellow members with Britain on the council of the League of Nations, are likely to commence a shipbuilding race on their own account. The Italians claim parity with France and are maintaining this right just as Britain and America do. The French refuse to admit parity, although they conceded it at Washington in 1921, and they will doubtless try to outbuild their Mediterranean rivals.

If this happens, and the British Admiralty maintains the bi-lateral policy which it has managed to do up to now, all carefully agreed ratios between Britain, United States and Japan will be scrapped, and the three nations will dance to the tune set by France and Italy.

This will result from the "escalator clause," by which each nation may claim the right to violate the treaty after informing the other signatories that political conditions force such action.

Subsequent to MacDonald's return from Washington, it was gradually extracted from members of his cabinet in the House of Commons that the British and American delegates had agreed among themselves before the conference started that the subject of freedom of the seas was taboo.

IN TERMS OF WAR

As far as the conference was concerned then, although war had been outlawed, the right to impose a maritime blockade had not.

It would be most interesting to know the real reason for the agreement not to discuss this most vital subject, which contains the principle for which America twice went to war—once with Britain and once with Germany.

As the right to exercise the blockade in one of those "unthinkable wars" when it breaks out has been adhered to by agreement between two of the world's most powerful navies, and as those navies made it most clear that they intend to remain the most powerful by retaining their great battlefleets, it is hardly wondered at that lesser navies clung to the submarine.

Indeed one of the most curious results of the conference is the production of a set of rules for the conduct of submarines attacking unarmed, peaceful merchantmen on trade routes in some future war. Set this off against the same conference's decision to build bigger and better submarines.

The rules for "humanizing" submarine warfare are more favorable to piracy than the unratified Root resolutions of the Washington Conference.

Finally let me say that because, ever since the conference opened, the delegates and their experts and advisers have been thinking in terms of war and not peace, inflated armaments remain and the taxpayers must foot the bill.

Criticize Chaliapin at Belgrade Concert

Belgrade, April 15 (INS)—Feodor Chaliapin, the basso, was severely criticized by the press and public today for a violent display of temperament last night when he refused to go on with his concert because the hall was only half filled.

When it was announced that Chaliapin would not go on, the audience indulged in a display of temperament all its own, the management breaking up the hostile demonstration with difficulty.

Press Views Show U. S. Against Court

Washington, April 15—That the citizens of America are determined not to become involved in the meshes of European intrigue through membership in the League Court, is emphasized by the results in Illinois last Tuesday when Ruth Hanna McCormick defeated Senator Charles Deneen by more than 200,000 plurality for the Republican senatorial nomination.

This is the view set forth in editorials from newspapers in widely scattered sections of the country commenting on the Illinois result. Excerpts from some of the more significant editorials are as follows:

Toledo (Ohio) Blade

"Mrs. McCormick in the slashing campaign just closed did not ask for quarter nor for votes because she is a woman. She declared aloofness from any deals or alliances with local machines.

"Voters generally did not like Senator Deneen's support of the World Court plan and she pledged herself to oppose such adherence. The woman candidate stumped the entire state. It was not a campaign of pink tea indorsement—

"By her victory she has picked up more political luster than most candidates in a lifetime."

Pittsburgh (Pa.) Post-Gazette

"Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick has won the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Illinois by one of the largest majorities that state has recorded in recent years in a primary fight.

"The victory must be one of unusual satisfaction to her. The World Court issue figured largely in the contest, and Mrs. McCormick is pledged to oppose it as an instrument of the League of Nations.

Boston Transcript

"The result will unquestionably be emphasized by those opposing American adherence to the court."

"She made her own issue, that of bitter-end opposition to American entrance to the World Court, and while it may be questioned whether her success was due primarily to that or that the political status of our proposed adhesion is one whit changed because she won the nomination she has emerged as a ruthless political power with whom hereafter, and her well-wishers everywhere, the male of the political species must reckon.

"She did not 'stand by Hoover for she won against 'him on an issue dearest to his heart, nevertheless her election will strengthen the Republican party, and also the President, generally speaking, for not only is she a Republican to the backbone, but she will stand as an active, flaming force where her predecessor merely went through the motions."

Boston Herald

"Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's victory in Illinois indicates that she is the most accomplished woman politician and vote-getter whom we have developed. She picked her issue—the World Court—shrewdly, and expounded it well.

"The daughter of Mark Hanna and the widow of a man who himself was a canny politician, she seems to have inherited her father's astuteness and her husband's perception."

Grand Island, Neb., Independent

"The Republican primary election in Illinois for the nomination of a candidate for United States Senator had one main issue.

"The opponent of Mrs. McCormick had favored the League of Nations and our country's affiliation with it; Mrs. McCormick vigorously opposed entangling American with European political affairs. The issue was brought about by the challenge to her adversary to defend his vote for affiliation. He accepted the challenge.

"Just as other Senators who voted to tie up with that European super-government have in the past been defeated, so Senator Deneen has now gone down.

"The voters of Illinois are thus to be congratulated on their decision."

HOOVER DEFIES OPPONENTS OF LEAGUE COURT

Hopes for Favorable Action in the "Lame Duck" Senate After Fall Election

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 15—Another dramatic battle in the Senate over the question of American adherence to the League Court is impending.

All doubt about this was dispelled by President Hoover's speech to the Daughters of the American Revolution last night, in which he served notice that he planned to go through with his policy of making the United States a member of the court notwithstanding the Illinois primary, or the growing signs of Senate opposition.

Following the Illinois primary, in which the veteran Charles S. Deneen went down to defeat before Ruth Hanna McCormick for the Republican senatorial nomination in a campaign that featured the court issue, it had reported that Mr. Hoover would allow the question of American adherence to die a quiet death.

READY FOR BATTLE

The reports were erroneous. Mr. Hoover is going to battle with the Senate on the issue.

"It (the court) has been accepted by 90 per cent of the civilized people of the earth," said Mr. Hoover. "It is established, and no other court is practicable."

America owes it to the world, the President said, to join the court. It is part and parcel, he asserted, of the world's march toward the goal of universal peace and the settlement of international disputes without resort to war. In that march, he said, the United States could not get out of step.

"Because of our inherited ideals of humanity and liberty," he said, "because of our freedom from haunting fears, there rests upon the United States a moral and spiritual duty to undertake a part in securing the peace of the world."

HOPE IN "LAME DUCKS."

The question of American adherence to the court is not yet before the Senate, but Mr. Hoover has declared that "at a convenient time" he will resubmit it on the basis of the Root-Hurst formula.

Because of the impending campaign it is understood Mr. Hoover will not resubmit the issue to the Senate until after the November election. The regular session in December will be replete with "lame ducks" (senators serving out their terms after defeat), and the court's chances are considered better in such a Senate than in one already nervous over the outlook for re-election.

TROUT SEASON OPENS FINELY

The trout season opened today with hundreds of fishermen scattered along the banks of Massachusetts streams.

Conditions were declared the most favorable in recent years despite clear skies and a bright sun. Because of early disappearance of snow, streams that usually are swift and icy at this season, were normal in flow and temperature.

A 13-year-old West Townsend schoolboy was the first fisherman to report a limit catch of the season.

The boy, Harvey Jodrey, caught the 25 trout allowed by law in a stream in the Squannicook River district before going to school today.

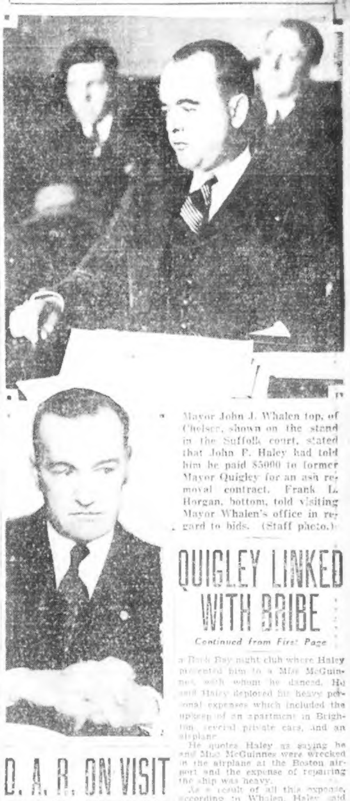
Quiz Chelsea Mayor



Mayor John J. Whalen top, of Chelsea, shown on the stand in the Suffolk court, stated that John P. Haley had told him he paid $5000 to former Mayor Quigley for an ash removal contract. Frank L. Horgan, bottom, told visiting Mayor Whalen's office in regard to bids. (Staff photo.)

a Back Bay night club where Haley presented him to a Miss McGuinness, with whom he danced. He said Haley deplored his heavy personal expenses which included the upkeep of an apartment in Brighton, several private cars, and an airplane.

He quotes Haley as saying he and Miss McGuinness were wrecked in the airplane at the Boston airport and the expense of repairing the ship was heavy.

As a result of all this expense, according to Whalen, Haley said he could not make his bid for the garbage and ash removal contract less than $41,000.

DENIES BRIBE OFFER.

The witness said he drove with Haley to the Brighton apartment of Miss McGuinness at 2:30 p. m. "to see if she was up," but denied going in.

Whalen denied categorically that Haley had ever made overtures regarding a bribe to him and that he (Whalen) had ever suggested any inducements.

In response to a question, the Mayor said he did not think it was anything out of the ordinary for him to discuss contracts with a contractor and go on parties with him.

SEEK TO HALT PAY.

The hearings, before James J. Ronan as special master, are being held on a bill in equity brought by the ten taxpayers seeking to restrain the city of Chelsea from disbursing funds for garbage and ashes disposal, and also to void the contract given to Cornelius E. Twoomey.

Twoomey was awarded the contract at $41,500, although James F. Cronin, a cousin of former Mayor Quigley, was the lowest bidder with an offer of $39,500.

The first witness called by Atty. Nichols was Frank L. Horgan, a contractor, who lives in Reynolds ave., Chelsea. He told of calling at Mayor Whalen's office in regard to bids on the garbage and ashes removal contract, and quoted the mayor as saying:

"I wish you would not embarass me with another bid. There are more than ten bids in now. I'm going to give the contract to Haley because if you knew what I owe him you'd be staggered."

D. A. R. ON VISIT TO MT. VERNON

Washington, April 15—The Daughters of the American Revolution in convention here are devoting their sessions today to committee reports, state delegation meetings and a pilgrimage to Mt. Vernon to lay wreaths in memory of George and Martha Washington.

With each state delegation lunching separately, much comment is expected among the 6000 members on yesterday's opening addresses and the subsequent speech of President Hoover.

The 39th continental congress of the D. A. R. was opened with an address by the president-general, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, calling upon the organization to uphold the constitution and preserve the ideals of its founders.

An address of greeting delivered by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Pennsylvania, past president-general, pleaded for enforcement of the dry law and declared the Eighteenth Amendment would never be repealed.

Mrs. Cook's introduction of prohibition at the opening sessions brought a rejoinder from Mrs. Hobart, who said:

"There has been no declaration by the D. A. R. concerning any question into which enters party controversy, whether that controversy be within parties or between parties."

A formal reception for the delegations in Constitution Hall and a ball for the pages at the Willard Hotel are scheduled for this evening.

PATTERSON SAYS HE BARED ALL HIS REVENUE IN GARRETT PROBE

TELLS HOW HE CHECKED UP ON POLICE LIQUOR RAID BOOK

Supt. Crowley and Chief Inspector Armstrong eulogized the police department.

He recalled telling the committee Garrett never did any booking of prisoners. "He didn't know enough." Patterson declared.

Q.—Do you recall saying before the committee you had absolutely no control over Garrett? A.—Yes.

Q.—You told Lieut. Carey you had to make a report out on his affair with Garrett and you said to the lieutenant at that time, 'You don't know what I'm up against'? A.—I recall that.

Q.—Well, your statement to the Legislature is substantially the same as your statement to Lieut. Carey? A.—That is a matter of opinion.

Finally Capt. Patterson admitted he could give no reason for making such a statement to the rules committee.

Q.—Wasn't the true explanation that Garrett was closer to Wilson than you were? A.—No. I didn't know Garrett was close to the commissioner. I didn't know I was.

Here Capt. Patterson then denied that he ever had seen Governor Fuller's report to Commissioner Wilson, although Wilson previously testified that he had shown the report to Patterson.

FAKE RECORDS

Patterson said of the 17 days when Garrett was out sick he "may have been working off and on or the records are wrong."

He was questioned at length about the record of Garrett's duty and finally admitted that this record was furnished in supporting Garrett's claim to a pension. He further admitted that it was largely inaccurate.

He said he had heard rumors of Garrett accepting money from keepers of disorderly houses as far back as 1927, and admitted he contented himself with a denial from those alleged to have paid Garrett, and a denial by Garrett himself.

Q.—Was that all you did to investigate rumors of Garrett taking graft? A.—That's al I could do.

Q.—Well, you planted marked bills on other officers accused of taking graft? A.—Yes.

Q.—But you never planted any bills on Garrett? A.—No.

After a denial by Capt. Patterson that he had ever heard of allegations that Garrett was selling milk to bootleggers and houses of ill repute in Boston, Atty. Hall produced a letter from Supt. Crowley to Capt. Patterson ordering the latter to investigate such reports. ..

"ANONYMOUS"

Q.—That was a pretty direct allegation, wasn't it, captain? A.—That was an anonymous letter the superintendent received.

Q.—You have testified much of the information received by your liquor squad comes from anonymous sources and is oftne helpful to you? A.—Yes.

Q.—And beside that, this particular anonymous letter had the order of Supt. Crowley to investigate attached? A.—Yes.

Patterson admitted that it would have been easy to detail a man to find out if the Garrett farm was delivering milk to houses of ill-repute, but he never did it. He took Mrs. Garrett's word, he said, that Garrett had no interest in the farm, and did not query Lieut. Hines although Hines had a farm nearby.

Q.—And do you mean to say that when rumors came in that Garrett was receiving graft from houses of ill-repute—that with all these rumors of his connection with the farm you sat there, powerless? A.—As I said before, I didn't know he had any connection with the fram.

The captain was shown a report on a house in Warren st., Dorchester.

Q.—Where in the report is there any answer to the query put out by Supt. Crowley as to whether Garrett was delivering milk from the Pine Grove Farm to houses of ill-repute?

Without answering, Patterson read the report. As he finished, Attorney Hall asked: "It would have been a good idea, wouldn't it to have investigated where that milk went? A.—Yes, it would have been a very good idea to investigate where the milk went.

Q.—And yet it was never done? A.—No, sir.

THE $800 BARN

A photograph of the Pine Grove Farm house and barn were shown Patterson and he was asked if he had characterized them as $800 Sears Roebuck farm buildings.

On examining the picture, witness said there was no el on the barn when he made one of his visits investigating Garrett.

Q.—All right. Now we will eliminate the el and show the barn. A.—The house and barn are combined. They were not that way when I was there.

Q.—Wasn't this big barn there set on cement foundation, the cost of which is in excess of $12,000, and yet you described it as an $800 Sears Roebuck barn. A.—That's the way it looked to me. (Laughter.)

Q.—Possibly, captain, you haven't had much experience in building. A.—I haven't had any. (Laughter.)

Shown copies of complaints made against Garrett, Patterson testified he was familiar with all of them.

Q.—On these complaints your investigation consisted of asking Garrett, against whom they were made, if they were true? Did you do that? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Don't you think it was a slipshod way to investigate these graft charges against Garrett? A.—No, sir. I say this. If an officer is accused of grafting whether he is on our own squad or not we should make every effort to get him. I didn't go after additional information of the charges of grafting made against Garrett because I did not know where to go and get it. I couldn't do anything further.

Witnesses Tell of Garrett's Affairs

Mrs. Margaret M. Maguire, widow, told at the hearing that her husband was a former counsel for Garrett. She said Garrett was the only policeman among her husband's clients.

Attorney James J. Yaffe, first witness at the Garrett hearing today, told of the writing of incorporation papers for the Pine Grove Farm at Hingham. (Staff photos.)

AMSTER SOUGHT TO 'BUY' BOY, GIRL CLAIMS

New York, April 15 (INS)—Nathan Leo Amster, multi-millionaire, offered to buy her baby from her for $100,000, Olga Eide Edwards, California dancing girl, testified today at her trial for alleged extortion.

Miss Edwards declared Amster, Boston public utilities magnate, was the father of her child. Amster has emphatically denied this from the witness stand.

"Amster visited me in California in 1924 when my boy Lee was six weeks old," Miss Edwards testified. "He looked at my boy and said:

"'It is beautiful and lovable and looks just like me. Olga, I will give you $100,000 if you will let me have the baby.'

"I said, 'No.'"

Miss Edwards testified that when she asked Amster in 1927 what would happen to her boy if she died he suggested she draw up a will and that he, Amster, be appointed guardian.

An attempt to introduce the will into evidence was over-ruled by the court. Defense counsel said the lawyers who drew up the will on February 18, 1927, would testify.

TELLS ABOUT DIARY

Miss Edwards told of the first love letter and ardent courtship of Amster, and related passages from his diary.

When she was in California in January, 1918, Amster sent her a torrid telegram and love letters, she testified, and later followed in person.

Miss Edwards testified that when she was in Los Angeles Amster wired her to meet him at a hotel.

"I engaged a room and met him," she said. "We occupied separate rooms, but we were put out of the hotel at 2 a. m. one night when the manager found him in my room."

She said Amster talked about her future and sent her to a New York dramatic school.

MET HER IN PARIS.

"He gave me money to buy all my clothes," she said. "He didn't want me to go out with anybody else. I was to continue my stage work and he was to pay all my expenses. I could go out and dance if I wanted to but he did not want me to go any further than that."

"I obeyed," Olga said. "I was interested only in him and my stage work."

"Did you know where his home was?"

"Only in Brookline, Mass."

In 1921, Olga said, Amster sent her to Europe and met her in Paris later.

FINANCIAL LITERACY

To vote one must be able to read. To handle money with any semblance of wisdom and success, one must know his economic a, b, c's so that he may read the signs that mark the high road to independence and affluence.

In the belief that no equally good contribution to the financial education and awareness of its readers can be offered, THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN will publish on its financial page every Monday the weekly index number summaries and economic articles of Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale.

Letters From Readers

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

In these days of Garrett cases, distrust of public officials, etc., I trust that I may call attention to an error that is apt to occur under these circumstances. This error is that of assuming that because SOME officials are, or have been, corrupt, all are so. As a matter of fact, it is the exceeding fewness of them that makes them striking news features and the rank and file of the police is true as steel to the public trust.

It won't do for the public to assume that the honest policeman who will think nothing of risking his life in the discharge of his public duty—and that there are many such, we all know—is a crook. Yet this is what the attitude of too many citizens will be, and, believe me, this is the attitude that makes for criminality, since it breeds contempt for those who are daily risking their lives to protect the lives and properties of the public. In all justice—LET US BE FAIR.

Remarkably Active for a Man His Age

"I've suffered my last spell of sour stomach," says Warren Cook of 595 W. 207th Street, New York. "I found out that by taking Acidine three or four nights a week, I never have that uncertain feeling whether my meals are going to sit right, or make me miserable from the indigestion and gas I used to have so regularly."

Sick, sour stomach, indigestion, burning sensation in the throat and gassy belching usually come from too much acid when your stomach doesn't digest the starchy food you eat. Not more than one person in a hundred has a stomach so perfect it will do it without help. That's why more than two million people are now using Acidine regularly, to enjoy good appetite and freedom from distress and pain after eating. You can get Acidine at any drug store.

At the Age Women Dread

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. After that I had to lie down often. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little schoolgirls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better."—Mrs. Della Hutsell, 623 East 1st Street, Casper, Wyoming.

Says America Must Be Ruler of the Waves

Editor Boston American:

Over in France they are afraid of Anglo-Saxon imperialism. England and America are on the verge of a strong alliance. This alliance would control the financial resources of the naval power of the world and would sweep all opposition before it.

We Americans, it is asserted, have great ambition of being the ruling world nation and that England realizes that the United States is the greatest financial power in the world. Why not? What are we a nation for? Are we to humble ourselves always before the League of Nations and World Court and keep sneezing assent to the dictation of other nations? America must rule the waves.

Urges Spelling Bee to Boom Tercentenary

Editor Boston American:

It strikes me that if we want more money to make a good showing of the Tercentenary year, we should invite a number of prominent officials in this city, including the mayor, to a Tercentenary Spelling Bee and charge a reasonable fee for admission. Give those who are to take part in this affair one week to cram up on words that they could not spell off hand without some preparation.

It would be a good show, if you could get the lawyers and ministers in this, pitted against each other. Then give the women a chance to down the men in spelling. It would make fun, cause some comment, and would yield a sum of money to boom this tercentenary that so many are not now interested in.

HENRY TITCOMB.

Calls Unemployment Problem Balderdash

Editor Boston American:

With all this balderdash about unemployment, there is this to be considered, that the fundamental prosperity of this country depends upon the consuming power of the people. That consuming power is developed through the medium of money. The chief sources of the money to finance consumption are the wages and salaries paid by industry and the amounts paid to the farmers for their products. Then another source of income is the profits of industry. These are a few facts that may start some of us on the right course to comprehend unemployment.

Sees Illinois Women On "Up-Grade"

Editor Boston American:

Now that Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick has won the Republican nomination for senator of the United States, women seem to be on the up-grade in the state of Illinois.

Another woman in another field has won her spurs in being chosen one of the directors in the Western Theological Seminary, Chicago. This is a phenomenal election. Mrs. Robert B. Gregory of that city has this honor conferred upon her in being the first woman in the United States to be so placed in a theological camp. This has always been reserved for the males. Keep it up, Illinois! Wonders will never cease in the Windy City.

Wants Old Churches Kept In Use

Editor Boston American:

It was gratifying to read in the papers that Tremont Street Methodist Church, with its historical background, is to be anchored, and not abandoned, as a church. Protestants have already made a few mistakes in this particular. The selling of The Church of the Messiah, Gainsborough st., Boston, is an instance of this. Episcopalians sold it because they thought it was a problem to keep it going, where it was located for only a short time, after being removed there from Florence st.

19 INJURED IN STREET RIOTS IN INDIA

Calcutta, Bengal, India, April 15 (AP)—Nineteen persons were injured seriously in heavy fighting between Nationalists and police, which developed around burning tram cars in the Bhawanipore Sikh quarter today.

A mob, demonstrating against the arrest and imprisonment of Mayor J. M. Sen Gupta yesterday stoned a fire brigade which was attempting to subdue the flames.

Six European officers were among the injured. A man named Durant was one of the 19 sent to hospitals. A European woman cycling in the district was forced to dismount and abandon her machine when she was stoned by the crowd. She received nasty gashes.

There were unconfirmed rumors of firing in North Calcutta. Armed police were on duty throughout the affected area and armored cars were active. It was reported that although the disturbances were quelled somewhat there still was considerable unrest with occasional rushes by the crowd.

The shells of tram cars this afternoon still remained in the streets, which were littered with brick bats, road metal, sheet iron and broken weapons.

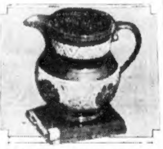
DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 72



Lovers of pottery have always appreciated the special beauties of lustre ware. The secret of applying metal to pottery so as to remain after burning was discovered in 1740 by Richard Frank of Brislington, England. A patent was taken out in 1810 by Peter Warburton on a process of applying gold, silver, platinum and other metals, fluxed with lead or any other system. Josiah Wedgwood made a quantity of gold and silver lustre ware.

Lustre ware comes in various forms. It is found chiefly in tea services, jugs, cups, bowls, plates and sometimes dessert services. In the all-over style, it was made to imitate early silver tea services and old Sheffield plate, before electro-plating was discovered. Lustre is commonly used as a background but occasionally the design itself is in lustre.

The jug shown today is owned by Mrs. J. N. Robinson of 93 Cedar st., Roxbury, and has been handed down from her great-grandmother.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

Millions in Special Taxes

The buyers of insurance in the United States indirectly but actually contribute a vast sum—approximately $80,000,000 annually—through taxes additional to the regular taxes paid by insurance companies in common with other lines of industry. This money is a burden upon the premium of the policyholder, notwithstanding it is collected from the company.

The original purpose of special taxes upon insurance was to maintain state supervision of the business, but such supervision uses but four cents of each dollar, and the balance—about $77,000,000—goes into the general funds of the states.

These special taxes of the state and the taxes which insurance companies pay in common with all other business concerns, and owners of property, as well as their substantial taxes to the Federal Government, are factors in the cost of fire insurance.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has adopted the following resolution:

"... . Special State Taxes now levied on Policyholders through insurance companies should not be considered as a source of general revenue, but should be reduced to the total in each state which will adequately support such state's departmental supervision ...."

The Stock Fire Insurance companies, which transact by far the greater portion of the fire insurance business of the country, want you to realize this condition and its effect upon the cost of your fire insurance.

EDSON ISSUES NEW RULES AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The small commercial operator on the Boston Municipal Airport will be a thing of the past, unless he can conform with the new rules and regulations set down by Park Commissioner William P. Long and Airport Superintendent Albert L. Edson.

These rules state that no plane can be operated for hire unless the operator shows satisfactory evidence of financial responsibility, and insurance coverage on personal liability and property damage.

It is understood that the required insurance policy would be for $10,000, or about the same as that of automobiles. The premium will be about $200.

This same rule also provides that no commercial operations can be carried on unless the operator has a lease from the park commissioners for a plot of ground, or otherwise a written permit. Neither lease nor permit will be granted unless the insurance provisions are satisfied.

These new rules state that no airplane shall be operated from the field unless licensed by the Department of Commerce or the state registry of motor vehicles.

Each hangar also must have an operations manager who will check in every plane flying from the hangar and record all visiting ships.

Pilots starting out on a cross-country flight of 50 miles or over shall check in at the Administration Building to notify the superintendent as to his destination. This will not apply to airplanes operating on regular schedule.

An emergency crew will be assigned by Edson for removal of airplanes wrecked on the field except when the company owning the plane is removing it.

Edson may stop all flying at the airport, except air mail planes, when the weather conditions are dangerous, or when the landing area is considered unsafe.

Woman Doctor Dies From Septic Throat

Worcester, April 15 (AP)—Dr. Mary H. Sherman, 61, who has practiced medicine in Brookfield 37 years, died today in Belmont Hospital here where she was taken yesterday suffering from a septic throat. Because of the nature of the disease the body was buried today. She had been ill one week.

Burning Bridges Hold Up Traffic

Mexico City, April 14 (AP)—Reports said today that three bridges had been burned on the Mexico City-Laredo railway line south of Monterey. A Monterey-Mexico City train was forced to return to Monterey and wait several hours for repair of the bridges.

Hijackers Include Chicken Farmer in Their Racket

Chicago, April 15 (INS)—"Hijackers" have developed a brand new phase of their "racket."

Victor Perry, a farmer of St. Lucas, Ia., was on his way to market today with a truck load of chickens and eggs, when he was stopped several miles out of Chicago, by a gang of men armed with a machine gun, a shotgun and two revolvers.

The hoodlums "hijacked" the produce, evidently under the impression that it was wet goods.

Honorary Degree to German Philosopher

Lisbon, April 15 (AP)—Count Hermann Keyserling arrived here today to receive an honorary degree from the Academy of Sciences. The famous German philosopher will deliver three lectures while here and will be received in special audience by President Carmona.

CHILDREN'S APPETITES ARE FICKLE

Often Due to Tasteless or Uninviting Diet

Mothers are often confronted by the problem of getting their children to eat what is good for them. When they notice that this objection to wholesome foods results in underweight and lowered vitality, they are naturally much disturbed.

The lack of taste-appeal of the food served is often the cause of poor appetites. The cereal may be tasteless; the fruit juice or stewed fruit too sharp; the vegetables uninviting in flavor.

By adding a dash of sugar to these foods, they will be much improved in flavor. Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar, because it makes those foods which are rich in vitamins, minerals and roughage more enjoyable to the child.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular way to season string beans, spinach, carrots, cabbage, peas and other vegetables as they cook. And raw vegetables used in salads are much more palatable when served with a French dressing in which such a combination of sugar and salt is used. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

As the weather becomes more balmy the very smart and practical silk suits will be seen in attractive variety. The little jacket or bolero suit of silk has greatest popularity for street wear, and is best in darker colors accented with prints, or the very new plaids.

The vogue for color contrast prevails. Brown forms an excellent basic tone, in that it goes well with almost every other smart color. Brown, with yellow and green, forms a delightful combination; black with lacquer red, and black with billiard green are always effective.

There must always be something new to make this matter of fashions exciting. The latest news that brings color into our lives is that of the accenting shades that will make our spring ensembles interesting. Shades of henna and red that have hitherto been allowed to flare forth only in the autumn will brighten the spring fashion horizon. Emerald green, sapphire blue, and brown are other vibrant colors that will be best displayed with the white and pastels of our summer frocks.

The delightful little three-piece suit pictured is of brown silk crepe, with exquisite detail of vertical tucking on the skirt, its edge finished in wide "saw-tooth" points.

The tuck-in sleeveless blouse has a vestee of plaid silk, toned brown, yellow and green. The plaid is repeated as scarf on the small jacket, and edging the hand-done button holes. The little silk coat boasts many dressmaker details, its wide band about the hips tucked to echo the skirt trim.

Sunburst tucks that ray from the neckline of the frock are taking on new importance in a season of intricate cut and simplicity of line. They are used on the skirt of the frock as well. These tiny pin tucks have the virtue of achieving excellent fit, remaining at the same time a simple and charming trimming for the frock.

Whether you wear them straight or on the bias, you must wear plaids this spring. Norman Hartnell, courturier, has combined plaids with a zigzag print in a clever ensemble that he calls "Hop Scotch." Zigzag jersey makes the dress, which is topped by a little sleeveless belted jacket of white pique. A three-quarter coat is worn with this costume. This coat is of woolen of dark green plaided with lines of red and white.

SAYS TROTZKY IS FORGIVEN

Berlin, April 15—Leon Trotzky, exiled old opposition leader in Soviet Russia, has reached an agreement with Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator, and may shortly return to Moscow.

This sensational report stirring Central European supporters of Trotzky is made by M. Miasnikoff, a Trotzky adherent who has just escaped from Russia, passed through Berlin and gone on to Paris.

The report is in direct contradiction to the decision handed down recently by Emilian Yaroslavsky, chairman of the central control committee of the Communist party, who said Trotzky would never be permitted to return to Russia or take a place in the Soviet machine.

Approve Fusion of German Lines

Hamburg, Ger., April 15 (AP)—Stockholders of the Hamburg-American Lines at a special meeting today ratified the fusion agreement between that company and the North German Lloyd Lines by which the two concerns come under a joint agreement, while preserving their identities.

Necking Parties on State Highways Barred in N. Y.

Albany, April 15 (AP)—Necking parties on state highways were outside the pale of the law today.

Governor Roosevelt yesterday signed the measure which forbids parking of cars on highways outside cities and villages, except in case of emergency. The parking practice has been blamed for many accidents.

Violation of the law is punishable by a fine of not more than $50 for the first offense, and by a fine not to exceed $50 and imprisment for not more than six months for subsequent offenses.

Candles Set Altar Boy's Cassock Afire

Provincetown, April 15—As 300 worshippers knelt at devotions last night in St. Peter's Church they were horrified to see the cassock and surplice worn by Fernaldo Kelley, Jr., 13, an altar boy, catch fire as he was lighting the altar candles.

While several of the congregation made a rush for the altar to aid the boy, he calmly stripped off the burning garments and saved himself from serious burning. Before anybody could reach him he had extinguished the flames.

NAB EX-SHERIFF IN MURDER

Mauston, Wis., April 15 (AP)—Juneau county's former "boy sheriff," Lyall Wright, was charged today with the slaying of Dist. Atty. Clinton G. Price.

As soon as the murder warrant was issued an extra guard was placed about the jail where Wright has been held since a few hours after the shooting Sunday night. An inquest was to be held today.

A trail, presumably of blood, was one of the circumstances that prompted the arrest of Wright. The stains began at the spot where the slayer must have stood when he fired the shotgun slugs into the district attorney's body at the rear of Price's home.

The stains led toward Wright's home, where officers found Wright, his clothing torn and one hand cut.

Grant Pardons to Political Offenders

Madrid, April 15 (AP)—The official Gazette today published a royal decree by which a general amnesty and pardon are given all political offenders. The decree represents King Alfonso's customary act of clemency and benevolence during Holy Week.

Women Gaining Fast in Their Hold on Public Office

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Almost unnoticed, women are slipping into local elective and appointive posts, from justice of the peace to Alderman, at a rapid rate.

That discovery was mode by the league of men voters in a survey of four states, sampled as typifying the situation throughout the country.

An increase of more than 100 per cent in five years was noted in Connecticut, Michigan, and Wisconsin, while Minnesota showed a decided gain.

URGE PLANT TO AID JOBLESS

The Revere city council at its meeting last night took under advisement a petition requesting a permit for the erection of a celluloid glass and eyeshade factory in the Beachmont section.

H. King Halikman of State rd., Beach, filed the petition and at the same time claimed that there would be no risk to Revere citizens as the chemicals used are non-explosive.

Former Mayor Alfred S. Hall appeared in favor of the bill. He claimed that it would relieve the unemployment situation.

You've read pages on "new Easter fashions" and "smart color ensembles" and "tremendous savings". We realize all these things are important — our large, moderately-priced selections prove that. But we believe they count for very little without the right answer to your inevitable question, "how does it fit"?

Here at Bond's, we never take chances in supplying that right answer! We insist that every tailor in every Bond store be a graduate of our own factory. They've made Bond clothes. They know how to fit them to meet your individual needs. They know how to shape a collar so that it hugs your neck. They've been taught to model a shoulder so that the sleeve hangs smooth and comfortable. Chasing back wrinkles is their hobby. When a pair of trousers leaves their hands, it is just right from snug waist-band to smartly creased cuff.

And as you stand before the mirror, and actually "see yourself in a suit that fits like this," you'll have the added pleasure of knowing it's going to stay that way. Handsome fabrics from renowned British and American weavers take care of that! EDSON ISSUES NEW RULES AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The small commercial operator on the Boston Municipal Airport will be a thing of the past, unless he can conform with the new rules and regulations set down by Park Commissioner William P. Long and Airport Superintendent Albert L. Edson.

These rules state that no plane can be operated for hire unless the operator show satisfactory evidence of financial responsibility and insurance coverage for personal liability and property damage.

It is understood that the required insurance policy would be for $10,000, or about the same as that of automobiles. The premium will be about $200.

This same rule also provides that no commercial operations can be carried on unless the operator has a lease from the park commissioners for a plot of ground, or otherwise a written permit. Neither lease nor permit will be granted unless the insurance provisions are satisfied.

These new rules state that no airplane shall be operated from the field unless licensed by the Department of Commerce or the state registry of motor vehicles.

Each hangar also must have an operations manager who will check in every plane flying from the hangar and record all visiting ships.

Pilots starting out on a cross-country flight of 50 miles or over shall check in at the Administration Building to notify the superintendent as to his destination. This will not apply to airplanes operating on regular schedule.

An emergency crew will be assigned by Edson for removal of airplanes wrecked on the field except when the company owning the plane is removing it.

Edson may stop all flying at the airport, except air mail planes, when the weather conditions are dangerous, or when the landing area is considered unsafe.

You've read pages on "new Easter fashions" and "smart color ensembles" and "tremendous savings." We realize all these things are important — our large, moderately-priced selections prove that. But we believe they count for very little without the right answer to your inevitable question, "how does it fit"?

Here at Bond's, we never take chances in supplying that right answer! We insist that every tailor in every Bond store be a graduate of our own factory. They've made Bond clothes. They know how to fit them to meet your individual needs. They know how to shape a collar so that it hugs your neck. They've been taught to model a shoulder so that the sleeve hangs smooth and comfortable. Chasing back wrinkles is their hobby. When a pair of trousers leaves their hands, it is just right from snug waist-band to smartly creased cuff.

And as you stand before the mirror, and actually "see yourself in a suit that fits like this," you'll have the added pleasure of knowing it's going to stay that way. Handsome fabrics from renowned British and American weavers take care of that! All of which indicates that you get much more than a cash saving through the Bond policy of controlling every step "from the loom to you."

When children get 'Choosy' tempt them with MUELLER'S ELBOW MACARONI

WHEN children's appetites rebel, here's a way to get them to eat healthful, nourishing food. Serve Mueller's Elbow Macaroni. Even when no other food appeals, boys and girls eagerly relish this most tasty of all macaronis. Its small size and elbow shape make it most easy to eat.

A Different Macaroni

Mueller's is different from any macaroni you have ever served. It has a taste all its own and, when boiled for nine minutes, it acquires a lightness, fluffiness and easy digestibility that make it an ideal food for children. Avoid the common mistake of overcooking—although one or two minutes more may be allowed if especial tenderness is desired.

A Delicious Health Food

Mueller's Elbow Macaroni is most healthful. Made of a selected blend of farina—the heart of the wheat—it supplies energy, health and body-building elements to growing boys and girls—and to adults as well.

Be sure to say "Mueller's" the next time you order from your grocer. He has it or can get it for you.

Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, asked if Tinkham would object to the League using [illegible] to educate people to e[illegible] law.

"Of course not. It's dog eat dog in this world, anyway," she said a little wearily. "And if it's true anywhere that one man's loss is another man's gain it's true in business. It's not your fault," Betty reminded her, "that Andrews went to pieces."

> Argument
>
> Anne Heard the Voice of Her Mother

Anne lived in one of those suburbs of New York city which are neither town nor country. A suburb in which every little brick house is its neighbor's twin.

Anne's house was fifth in a row of ten. As [illegible] door was open she heard her mother's voice with its rich [illegible] of County Clare raised in argument. Anne grieved. "Kathleen's at it again," she guessed as she walked in.

In the kitchen Mrs. Murdock was lecturing her youngest child, darting from stove to cupboard, a blue-bibbed apron tied about her round waist, every red hair in place above her flushed, animated face, one hand gesticulating with a large tin spoon.

"And that you shall not [illegible]" ultimatumed as Anne entered.

Kathleen was sitting on the kitchen table swinging her beautiful legs. She was 19 years old. She had Anne's facial contour and Anne's dark blue eyes, but her hair was bushy black and her full, startlingly painted mouth was weaker than Anne's, and at the moment mutinous.

"What's all the shootin' for?" Anne inquired as she seized her mother about the waist and implanted a hearty kiss under the little lady's left ear.

Kathleen, whose face had brightened at Anne's entrance, produced a package of cigarettes from her pocket and reached for a match. She struck it and a moment later inhaled a lungful of smoke.

"Painted and smoking like [illegible] mother dark."

Anne [illegible]

"Darling [illegible] can't you? Kathleen isn't hurting herself or anyone else by some lipstick and a cigarette now and then. I've been known to [illegible] both myself."

"If I'd carried on that way," remarked Mrs. Murdock, "my old mother, rest her soul, would have [illegible] me and well I'd have deserved it."

Anne [illegible] regard [illegible] Kathleen was so pretty and Anne [illegible]

[illegible] refused [illegible] spent her days hanging around the Long Island motion picture studios and getting work as an extra [illegible] father raged and her mother stormed and Anne stood as [illegible] sister and [illegible] parents. And now—

"She's going into the chorus, no less!" announced Mrs. Murdock, much as if she had said, "She's going to murder her [illegible] great aunt!"

Anne [illegible] Kathleen nodded [illegible]

"The Sky Girl at the Forty-fifth Street Theater. Got in through Lea—the girl I met over at the studio. Watch my step, Anne. I'll soon be glorified by Ziegfeld."

"Golly, that's great," said Anne.

> Determined
> Obstacles Useless in Kathleen's Way

There was no sanity in putting [illegible] in Kathleen's way. She was more [illegible] stubborn [illegible] was determined and Anne had reasoned for some time that the more [illegible] was opposed the more set she'd be upon having her own way. Besides, so far as Anne was concerned, the stage, provided you liked it and were suited to it, was a perfectly good way of earning a living.

She said as much to her mother.

Mrs. Murdock sniffed. "Kathleen, get off that table and carry these things in for me," she commanded.

And Kathleen [illegible] smiling [illegible] She knew that Anne was the barometer by which her mother judged the domestic weather. If Anne put the seal of her approval upon Kathleen's ambitions, in time Mrs. Murdock would set her seal there also.

"That's your father!" exclaimed Mrs. Murdock as a car rattled into the drive.

He came in presently, a tall man with dark graying hair and an intelligent, irritable face. He was shop foreman for one of the outlying districts of the gas company.

He had worked for the company since youth and had reached the limits of his capabilities. For, practical and competent though he was, he lacked education. He growled at the increased cost of living, but his salary, three thousand

"In view of the fact that the War Department has experienced no great difficulty in providing separate ships for the colored mothers of Americans whose sons were sacrificed in the war, it should not appear either difficult or impossible to provide separate ships for the New England mothers to sail from the port of Boston.

"Trusting this matter will be adjusted, in view of the position taken by the United States Lines and awaiting an early reply, I remain,

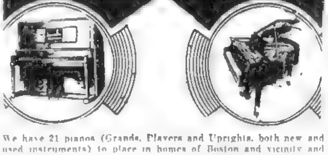
21 Pianos to Loan
FREE!



We have 21 pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) to place in homes of Boston and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. A number of the company's retail stores have been discontinued and many of these instruments have been selected from our Norfolk, Richmond and Lynchburg stocks. Instead of storing these pianos to depreciate in value we are ready to take the loss now and have priced these instruments at greatly reduced figures and anyone contemplating the purchase of a piano in the next few months cannot afford to miss this opportunity. All pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.
Many radios, phonograph combinations, phonographs and records will be sold at prices almost unbelieveable
Positively No Charge for Anything
No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer which comes but once in a lifetime

OFFICERS LAY PLAN TO STRIKE BACK IN COMPENSATION FIGHT

DISABLED MAN SAYS CRITICS 'UNFAIR'

[illegible] Elkins Explains Foote's Case and Makes a Reply to Councillor Bush

[illegible]

"For one officer receiving a large sum from State or Nation," said [illegible] Samuel T. Elkins of 91 H[illegible] st., [illegible], "we can show you four or five hospital cases in hospitals or private homes."

[illegible]

O. K.'D BY WASHINGTON

"The bulk of the disabled emergency officers," he said, "are receiving compensation for 30 per cent permanent disability and this permanent disability was determined at Washington. Unlike the cases of enlisted men whose disability can be determined here, the cases of officers were reviewed at Washington.

"Every retired emergency officer was forced to fight for his retirement and show unquestioned proof of his disability. The retirement bill was passed to place the emergency officers on the same plane as regular army and navy officers whose compensation the United States Supreme Court characterized as honorary pensions.

"In the first place they were given disability compensation, but later the officers were permitted to draw a pension in which the disability was merged.

"In the cases of some officers such as Maj. Gen. Foote, for example, who have had long service in the National Guard, their pension is based on length of service as well as on disability.

REPLIES TO BUSH

"If Gen. Foote were rated for disability alone he would probably receive only $[illegible] a month. It is apparent that most of the public do not understand this and certain officials who have been making charges are equally ignorant.

"Councillor Herman Bush, who introduced a resolve in the Boston City Council calling for a congressional investigation of the situation, apparently is not well informed.

"I attended Boston University law school with Councillor Bush when he was receiving vocational training at the expense of the Government. He was getting at least $100 a month disability, and books and tuition the equivalent of $500 a year for three years during which he received a legal education.

"During this same period Gen. Foote was receiving $[illegible] a month for disability, so that Councillor Bush must have had his facts twisted when he cited Foote's case.

"Many disabled officers like myself, for instance, do not show many outward signs of disability and yet I venture to say the average man would not care to go through what I do every few weeks in having my lungs drained."

Argonne Bouts

FOUR ROUNDS

THREE ROUNDS

TEN ROUNDS
Dick Honeyboy Finnegan, Dorchester, vs. Johnny Farr, Cleveland.
First bout, 8:15 p. m.
Main bout, 10 p. m.

WHETHER Dick Honeyboy Finnegan [illegible] southpaw [illegible] is [illegible] campaign, which [illegible] will carry him to a title bout with Champion Sammy Mandell, will be determined tonight at Mechanics Building when the lion-hearted portsider makes his first start in eleven months against Johnny Farr, Cleveland lightweight, in a bout that has aroused more local interest than any event that has been staged here in many months.

Finnegan, who [illegible] that he will never again grace [illegible] ring if he fails to register a victory tonight, has been taking a different view of things [illegible] days. After six weeks of [illegible] training Finnegan [illegible] be [illegible].

Yet Lave Meade [illegible] of Farr who has [illegible] with [illegible] Andy Chaney and [illegible] predicts that Farr, one of the hardest punching lightweights in the game, will take the measure of Finnegan tonight. Meade [illegible] goes so far as to predict a K. O. victory for Farr, who has improved greatly [illegible] the past [illegible].

Finnegan Is Anxious to Battle Callahan

Farr [illegible] one of the few boxers in the ring today who holds a referee's decision over Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver. In addition [illegible] lightweight [illegible] has beaten most of the prominent lightweights in the game.

It took many months to persuade Finnegan to return [illegible] victory [illegible] Andy Callahan of Lawrence. [illegible] will be one of the [illegible] events of the summer season if [illegible] is clinched.

No doubt throngs of Hub fans who have deserted the boxing game in recent bouts will be on hand for Finnegan's return tonight. While the fans are hopeful that Finnegan will win, at the same time they realize that the bout should be one of the best lightweight scrapples ever [illegible] Hub, a test between two [illegible] one of whom is [illegible] the future [illegible] knows and one that has [illegible] an outstanding figure [illegible].

Yet the secondary feature on the card promises to develop as much interest as the main event for Hub fans are anticipating the appearance of Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, and Gentleman Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia, who meet in a three-round exhibition.

These former monarchs of the ring, who have never been forgotten in spite of the fact that they were in their prime 20 years ago, are certain to prove a magnet tonight which will draw thousands of old timers to the ringside.

These veterans were bitter rivals in their heyday, and tonight they will open a tour here for Eddie Mack, which is expected to carry them through every principal city of the country.

Devine and Villa in Semifinal

In another feature of the card Harry Devine of Worcester, former hero of the U. S. Olympic team, will meet Pancho Villa of New Bedford in the eight-round semifinal. These boys [illegible] in a recent bout in what was considered as one of the best bouts of the season and they will go to the post as even money in tonight's bout.

The professional debut of two Italian stars who invaded this country with the amateur team will mark another feature tonight. Werter Arceli, welterweight, will meet Frankie Baldi of Lynn, while Odonne Piazza, middleweight, opposes Tom Quigley of Cambridge.

Red Sox Show Punch in Opening Drive

MR. BOSTON gave three [illegible] the Red Sox [illegible] of the [illegible].

The Sox can at least say they led the American League for a day. [illegible] the veteran "The clan of Quinn got off to a [illegible] start at Washington when they crashed the Senators for a 4 to 3 victory.

Jack Conway

Now for some action at Fenway Park. Heinie Wagner must be given credit for being a good matchmaker as well as a swell manager as he brought the Senators here from the Capital.

Even the Cimera board of strategy could not have done any better in picking an opponent for the first league game in the Hub.

President Hoover tossed out the ball for the opening tilt at Washington and so I cannot be charged that there was anything [illegible] about the Boston victory. Of course the President has been issuing numerous statements showing that business is picking up and that this is the most prosperous country in the world. I would suggest that Hoover let the world know that the Red Sox have a pretty good looking ball club this April. Which would prove that even a habitual cellar champion can change its habits.

"Of course I am not attempting to say what kind of a ball club the Red Sox will have in September. Maybe by July some of the boys will be selling Sox short.

"Anyhow our Sox won a game and they do say that a [illegible] in April is just as good as [illegible] scored when the birds and [illegible] are losing the [illegible] their shirt sleeves.

If the weatherman gives baseball clubs half a break thousands of fans will attend the games this month. I am labeled as a boxing fan, but I must confess that next to seeing Sharkey battle Max Schmeling I would rather attend a ball game than any other athletic pastime. Of course I make an exception for golf. You see that's a game where I do the Babe Ruth stuff all alone even though I still to bust 100."

Johnny Buckley Says a Few Words About Andy

JOHNNY BUCKLEY called Mr. Boston on the telephone. This indicated that Johnny is very happy as his chief witness in [illegible] is in increasing [illegible].

"Who is the New England lightweight champion?" asked Buckley.

"How much are you boys betting?" queried Mr. Buckley.

"Not a dime," replied Johnny. "I just wanted to make the vote unanimous. I put this question to 99 persons and each gave the same answers. Now I'd like to hear from you."

"You can cast my vote for Andy Callahan," replied Mr. Boston.

"Why, you're as smart as the other 99," asserted Buckley.

"Perhaps some people will say as dumb as the other 99," went on Mr. Boston.

"One hundred people can't be wrong," asserted Johnny.

"Several million were lost October when the stock market crashed," chirped Mr. Boston.

"They wouldn't have been if they had bought Andy Callahan preferred," went on Buckley. "Now that I have made it clear who is the lightweight champion of New England I'll be calling you later. Even if you go to Los Angeles."

MR. BOSTON was with Buckley one night early in January when Johnny picked up the telephone in a friend's house and put in a call for Max Schmeling in Berlin, Germany. The person in whose name the telephone was listed almost passed out of the picture when he discovered Buckley was calling Berlin, Germany, and not Berlin, N. H.

Mr. Boston witnessed Buckley call Jack Dempsey in Mexico once to have the hotel clerk say that the old Tiger had just checked out.

Most successful managers of boxers do all of their important business by telephone. Big matches are closed quickley in this way.

OLD AND NEW COMBINED IN MILADY'S COIFFURE

Suggestion of Crinoline Days Bewitching

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON
World Famous Beautician

I MUST [illegible] frankly admit [illegible] saw at the [illegible] I've even [illegible] myself.

It is a clever combination of the old and new mode, and when I say old I mean way back to Mother's girlhood days. Incidentally, it is marvelous for taking care of those [illegible] ends that one does not know what to do with during their growing out stage.

Josephine Huddleston

You can wear your hair parted in the center or on the side. This particular [illegible] had the center part [illegible] experiments the next day [illegible] that it is just as attractive [illegible] parting [illegible].

And if you have those small close-to-the-head ears that poets rave about, you'll be quite the swankiest and quaintest combination in femininity that has made her appearance in many a long day.

[illegible] is [illegible] cheeks and off [illegible] ends in a [illegible]. The hair should be pulled low on the forehead, however, and pushed up rather high on each side of the part.

Loose, natural appearing waves characterize the top dressing of the hair and although the dips that come down on the forehead should suggest definite waves, they MUST BE FLUFFY on [illegible] the [illegible] neck [illegible].

The best way to manage the ends in back, so that the loose ringlet effect is gained, is to make use of the old-fashioned kid curlers. And, if you can't procure these, bits of heavy paper can be pressed into service.

In any event, moisten the ends of the hair with waving fluid and [illegible] pieces of [illegible] the hair clear of [illegible] becoming [illegible] over the top [illegible] only the [illegible] off the [illegible] and [illegible] top of the [illegible] fluffy of [illegible] not [illegible] the very [illegible] them so that they are not too heavy and not set too close together.

Then after the brushing which [illegible] in an upward direction from [illegible] of the neck to the [illegible] the hair [illegible] so that [illegible].

You [illegible] necessary to tuck a few pins into the hair here and there to hold [illegible] so all those [illegible] want the [illegible] how [illegible].

An [illegible] suggestion re[illegible] that the waves out one of the hair [illegible] low and fluffy over the forehead and back off the sides of the face and ears and up off the back of the neck.

This coiffure is simply bewitching with the very bouffant type of frocks being sponsored for evening wear [illegible] but it would not be so acceptable for pure sports or [illegible] costumes. To be [illegible] of [illegible] be adopted [illegible] for the afternoon and evening dresses that have the slightest suggestion of crinoline even though we haven't actually gotten around to using it yet. The dresses that are [illegible] back into a bustle effect [illegible] are set off particularly well with this type of coiffure.

"Is that so? Where's my [illegible] now?"

[illegible]

"Miss Andrews is away on leave. I'm doing Mr. Eaton's work."

"Will she be coming back?" asked her mother keenly.

"He says so."

"And how does Mr. Saunders take it?"

"All right, but I'll have part of his work to do too," Anne answered and chuckled. Absurd how these important business men grew to lean upon girls like herself—insignificant, yet somehow significant.

New York Curb — Trends of the Day

CURB MARKET HAS RALLY IN AFTERNOON

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, April 15 (AP)—The curb market sold off substantially during the early hours of trading today, but made irregular recovery in the afternoon with resumption of operations for the advance in the utilities and some of the industrials.

The early unsettlement was largely attributable to the cut from 18 to 14 cents a pound in copper prices. Although such a development had been rumored for a long time, it made traders nervous and prompted large-scale short selling.

The copper shares of this market have been comparatively quiet for some time, and were depressed but moderately. Noranda, Newmont and Roan Antelope sagged 1 to 3 points, only Noranda getting close to its bottom of the year.

In the utilities, Electric Bond and Share, Utilities Power and Light and American Light and Traction new were well bought, rising a point or so.

Recent strength in the last named was attributed to unofficial reports that it is getting out on an ambitious natural gas development plan. This has also been reflected in firmness of United Light A, as United Light controls American Light and Traction.

The Appalachian Gas Corp. common stock was admitted to trading on this market, selling initially at 13¼. The stock closed in Chicago yesterday at 12¾.

The industrials were generally under pressure, although Deere new stock was in good demand, and Safety Car Heating rose several points in a small turnover. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, one of the few rails traded on the curb, mounted about three points in a few odd lot sales.

Commonwealth in Fresh Expansion

New York, April 15—The Journal of Commerce says acquisition of controlling interest in United Light & Power Co. by Commonwealth & Southern believed likely in near future. Commonwealth & Southern may make offer for exchange of stock.

Coast Line "Extra"

Atlantic Coast Line R. R. declared usual extra dividend of $1.50 and regular semi-annual dividend of $3.50 on the common, payable July 10 to stock of record June 12.

Indiana Standard in $20,000,000 Move for a Merger

Tulsa, Okla., April 15—Vice-President McFarlin of McMan Oil & Gas Co. of Tulsa confirmed reports that negotiations are under way for acquisition of the McMan interests by Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. Amount involved was said to be about $20,000,000, and the transaction would rank as one of the largest in the mid-continent.

COPPER PRICE IS CUT DOWN

New York, April 15 (INS)—Copper metal producers today reduced the price of domestic copper to 14 cents a pound, a drop of four cents a pound. Export copper was reduced from 18.30 to 14.30 cents a pound.

At the office of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company it was stated that the price of 14 cents a pound had been quoted for delivery to the end of July.

Copper producers have held the metal at 18 cents for more than a year, refusing to cut prices in the face of a general decline in commodity prices generally and a falling off in demand from the home and foreign markets.

The statistical position of the copper industry as a whole was stated by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, in a report issued last Saturday. Total stocks of blister and refined copper in North and South America on March 31 were 522,581 tons, according to this report, against 497,372 tons at the end of February, a gain of 25,209 tons.

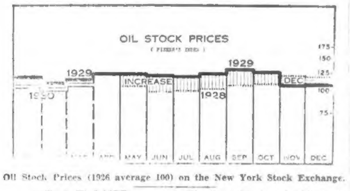
The daily rate of copper production in March was 1971 tons, the lowest rate of operation in many years.

The reduction to 14 cents a pound for domestic and 14.30 cents a pound for export copper was made at the conclusion of a series of conferences among the larger producers.

General Electric's Earnings Increase

Schenectady, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—The General Electric Company today reported net profit of $15,042,521 for the first quarter against $14,505,986 in the initial three months of 1929. This is equal to 50 cents a share on the common stock compared with 48 cents a year ago, figured on the basis of the present stock which represents a four-for-one splitup of the old shares.

Oils Regain Favor



Oil Stock Prices (1926 average 100) on the New York Stock Exchange.

By J. W. LAIRD
(Irving Fisher Service)

While most other groups of stocks had been coming back noticeably from the 1929 lows, according to the Fisher indexes, oil issues were sluggish until last month.

During March the oil shares, which began the month with an index of 99.2, rose to 116.8 at the close of business on the 31st. Until March the oil index had kept close to the low of last fall.

The turn of fortune in this group seems to have come with definite news of curtailment of output of crude oil through California and mid-continental agreement.

Gasoline stocks in storage began to show a decrease from record high figures, and the approach of the season when demand is highest, added to evidence that cut throat competition was not continuing, gave the impetus which caused the strong upward movement.

QUINCY RALLY COMES AFTER EARLY DROP

Prices in general were lower in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Quincy Mining started the session off over 3 points and rallied near the close.

American Telephone dropped 2 points, New England Telephone eased a point and Stone & Webster was down over a point. New Haven sagged a point while Boston & Albany was up over a point.

General Electric added over 2 points, Venezuela Mexican soared over 4 points and United Fruit gained a point.

American Pneumatic preferred, St. Mary's, United Shoe, Greif Brothers, Libby, McNeil, Libby, Warren Brothers and Edison each showed losses of a point or more.

Hathaway A was up over 2 and Boston Elevated second preferred gained a point.

An American Telephone stock issue has been strongly rumored for some time. With a $700,000,000 construction program projected for 1930, financing of some kind is of course inevitable. Directors of the company meet in New York Wednesday noon, and it is entirely possible that action on a new stock issue will take place at this meeting.

The previous stock issue, in 1928, was voted by directors at the May meeting, however, with June 1 the stock to record date and August 1 the first payment date. In fact, four of the last five stock issues were voted by directors in May; nevertheless, it is regarded as more than likely that the news of this year's stock offering will "break" at Wednesday's meeting.

If current gossip is well based, to the effect that the forthcoming stock issue will be one share for seven at 100, the "right" would be worth over $21, and would be the most valuable "right" created by the company, at least since 1901.

How this would compare with rights on previous American Telephone stock issues may be seen from the following tabulation:

COTTON PRICES RUN LOWER

New York, April 15—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 6 to 11 points under further realizing or liquidation and scattered selling promoted by the relatively easy Liverpool cables.

There was some spot house buying of near months, but the demand for these positions was less active than recently, which some regarded as indicating that the bulk of the May short interest had either covered or prepared to make deliveries on contracts if necessary. This view may have led to some selling.

While houses with foreign connections had a few selling orders, soon active months were 13 to 18 points net lower, with both May and July contracts selling below the 16-cent level. May declined to 15.95 and the new October contract to 14.88.

Liverpool cables said there had been Continental and Bombay liquidation in the market there and reported a restricted business in cotton goods for outlets generally.

$31,550,000 Bonds Awarded to Morgan

New York, April 15—The $31,550,000 4 per cent state bonds were awarded to J. P. Morgan & Co. on bid of 102.077.

Lever Bros, Ltd.

Net profit of Lever Bros., Ltd. for 1929 was 5,213,505 after depreciation and debenture interest, but before general reserves, against 5,274,075 in 1928.

Skinner Organ Company

Skinner Organ Co. reports for 1929 net of $215,000 after taxes, depreciation and reserves, equal to $3.55 a share on 60,500 no-par shares against $242,042 or $4.40 a share on 55,000 shares in 1928.

WALDORF SETS NEW RECORD FOR PROFITS

Waldorf System, Inc., had the biggest monthly profits in its history during March with net profits after charges in excess of $152,000. This in spite of a late Easter falling in April this year and a tendency on the part of the public to economize as reflected in the moderate gain of 5 per cent in dollar volume last month.

January and February showed even larger percentage gains in net than March so that profits for the first quarter to be made public toward the end of this month will show an increase of between 15 per cent and 18 per cent over the corresponding period last year. As dollar and cents business advanced but 2½ per cent and increased food value was given customers the efficiency of management is obvious.

On the basis of an increase in net of over 15 per cent, profits for the first quarter should be in the neighborhood of $320,000 against $277,000 last year. Balance after preferred dividends should run around 67 cents a share for the 461,610 shares of common or 10 cents a share better than the balance in 1929.

The first Waldorf System restaurant for New York will be opened around the 25th of this month. It is to be located on 53d st., opposite the projected Empire State Building. Leases are being drawn for three other equally advantageous locations so that by summer Waldorf System should be operating in an important way in New York.

Taking into consideration the new expansion and current trends the outlook is for another gain in earnings in the current quarter. While estimates now are altogether premature a material improvement over the balance of 56 cents a share for the second quarter of last year seems likely.

If Waldorf can hold its present pace—and as the peak of unemployment has passed this is reasonable to expect—balance of earnings for the common stock this year should reach $3 a share, a banner showing and contrasting with last year's record of $2.50 a share.

Waldorf common stock is currently selling at 31, a rise of 11 points or 60 per cent from panic low and a recovery that contrasts sharply with the indifferent improvement of chain store issues generally.

Initial Dividend

Prince & Whitely Trading Corp. declared an initial dividend of 25 cents on the common, payable June 2 to stock of record May 15.

Million-a-Year Executives Are Not Uncommon

Industry Alone Has More Than a Hundred, and Banking Several

—By B. C. Forbes—

NEW YORK, April 15—Cyrus S. Eaton referred—slightingly, the newspapers indicated—to Eugene C. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, as a "million-dollar-a-year man" during the fight to prevent Bethlehem's absorption of Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

F. C. Forbes.

Mr. Grace IS a million-dollar-a-year man. And so are well over a hundred other industrial executives, a few bank executives, quite a number of banking house partners and, all told, 290 Americans have TAXABLE incomes of a million or more. Of the 290, no fewer than 136 are New Yorkers.

Who are some of our million-dollar-a-year executives?

* * *

The first million-dollar-a-year American executive was Grace's chief Charles M. Schwab. He had a contract with Carnegie which netted more than that round figure. When the late J. P. Morgan discovered this while he was forming the U. S. Steel Corporation merger he was both astounded and disturbed. Sending for Schwab, he handed him the contract and asked what could be done about it. "This!" said Schwab. And he tore it into a hundred pieces.

* * *

Grace has been a million-dollar-a-year man for many years—not in salary, but through profit sharing. More than a decade ago Schwab told me:

"Grace earns several times as much as any other steel employe in the United States and is several times a millionaire."

Coleman du Pont, who made many millions and several millionaires, said to me:

"My highest-price men have proved the cheapest men I ever employed. They have made me the greatest profits."

Schwab feels exactly that way about Grace, who, Schwab solemnly declares knows infinitely more about the steel business than Schwab himself has ever begun to learn.

* * *

John J. Raskob two years ago made this statement:

"They say that Carnegie made thirty millionaires over a period of years. We made eighty millionaires in four years in General Motors. We induced eighty of our senior and junior executives to go into debt to buy General Motors stock. Every one of these men, even the juniors who put in only $25,000, are millionaires. Stock they paid $33,000,000 for is today worth $250,000,000 or so. The stock became so valuable because these men became owners and worked their heads off for success."

Since then the eighty, it is understood, has been swelled to over 100.

* * *

Walter P. Chrysler was paid $750,000 a year by John N. Willys years ago, and he received other emoluments which raised Chrysler's income to the million mark.

Judge Gary paid an income tax of more than $300,000 a year, indicating that he was in the million-dollar-a-year class. The Steel Corporation's profit-sharing plan presumably has put its present chief executive, James A. Farrell, in the seven-figure category. Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the corporation's executive committee, has earned more than a million a year, but not as an employe.

William M. Wood got—rather, in his case, took—more than a million a year from the American Woolen Company. Among well-known executives having million-dollar-a-year incomes are Herbert T. Parson of Woolworth's; E. T. Bedford, the veteran head of Corn Products Refining; Julius Rosenwald of Sears, Roebuck; Sydney Z. Mitchell of Electric Bond & Share; Samuel Insull of Chicago, John O'Ryan and Cornelius F. Kelley of Anaconda, Frederick S. Wheeler of American Can.

* * *

Walter C. Teagle, on the other hand, was revealed in 1923 to be drawing only $125,000 a year as president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, while five vice-presidents drew $100,000 each, political probers revealed. Walter S. Gifford, president of American Telephone & Telegraph, falls short of the million-a-year class, I undestand. Haley Fiske, for many years head of the Metropolitan Life, was relatively poorly paid and left an amazingly small fortune. Owen D. Young of General Electric and Radio Corporation, etc., presumably is in the seven-figure classification.

* * *

A. P. Giannini's share of the Bancitaly Corporation's profits reached $1,500,000 in a recent year—but he promptly turned it all over to the University of California because, as he said:

"I don't want to be a millionaire."

Cites Competition in Aviation Lines

New York, April 15.—The annual report for 1929 of the Consolidated Instrument Co. of America, Inc., made public today, shows a net loss of $105,806, according to Lucien L. Friez, chairman. Mr. Friez attributed the unprofitable showing to a general depression last year in the aviation industry, with and increased competition. He announced removal of the company's executive offices to Baltimore, resulting in reduced selling and administrative expense.

At the Radio Dial

By THE RADIO EDITOR

EASTER DAWN services will be broadcast to listeners over the entire nation from the top of Mt. Davidson, California, next Sunday morning by the National Broadcasting Co.'s combined networks, in co-operation with the Hearst Radio Service and the San Francisco Examiner.

THE IMPRESSIVE Easter service, conducted by eminent clergy of the Pacific Coast, will have a visible audience of thousands of Californians and tourist visitors. The sermon in this great open-air devotional service will be delivered by Dr. Lynn T. White of the faculty of the San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo. Rev. Charles P. Deems, D. D., rector of Trinity Episcipal Church, will give the invocation. Rev. Herbert T. Shaw, D. D., pastor of the Westside Christian Church, will bestow the benediction.

ANOTHER important feature of Holy Week is the performance of Bach's "Matthew Passion" by the Paulist Choir in tonight's Eveready Hour. This comes on the Red Network at 9 o'clock. The great male choir with its remarkable boy sopranos and contraltos, will be under the leadership of Fr. William J. Finn as usual. This organization has been heard in special concerts all over the United States.

Fr. Finn

GUS EDWARDS will head tonight's RKO broadcast at 10:30 through WEEI and the Red Network. His part in the program will consist of songs and comedy by his new company of Hollywood finds. Others on the RKO hour include Douglas Leavitt and Ruth Lockwood, comedy team, Wilson Brothers, German comedians and singers; Alice Hamilton, character comedienne, presenting "A Breath of Lavender and Old Lace"; Baby Rose Marie, child singer, who is creating a stir in vaudeville in New York; Peter Higgins, Irish tenor, and the official RKO orchestra.

RIPLEY'S new radio stunt, which is planned along lines made familiar in his popular cartoons, had its inaugural on WEEI and other stations of the N. B. C. Red Network last night. With Alwyn F. Bach as traveling companion, the cartoonist made a journey through New England towns, convincing the natives that much which had been gospel to them was error. We have no national anthem. "The Star Spangled Banner" is an old English drinking song. He had it sung, to prove his statements. "America" is an ole French drinking song. He had it sung to prove it.

THE BATTLE of Bunker Hill was not fought on Bunker Hill. Manhattan, in spite of the W. C. T. U., the Anti-Saloon League and the Coast Guard, is "A Place of Drunkenness," according to the Indian meaning of the name. A Panama city sees the sun rise in the Pacific and set in the Atlantic. Chopin's Funeral March has the same rhythm as Lohengrin's Wedding March. Rameses had 402 children. An African chief had 910. Finally he wound up with an ancient fishermen's riddle, "What we caught, we threw away. What we couldn't catch, we kept."

MUCH of this sort of thing is well-known to school children, of New England at least. But it is diverting. The statement about the wedding and funeral marches is not startling to a musician. In the field of music there is chance for much disclosure. The broadcast feature has an element of novelty, and when the chief entertainer overcomes his slight nervousness before the microphone, he will undoubtedly begin building an interested and growing audience.

Direct Service to Bermuda Seen

Increase in Tourist Trade Makes New Run Likely

Boston to Bermuda direct . . .

That's a possibility which is steadily impressing itself upon harbor enthusiasts who are in touch with recent developments.

These developments are:

1.—Bermuda travel is exceptionally heavy, with many Bostonians as tourists.

2.—The Munson line has ordered its four big liners on the New York to South America run to change their route to make regular calls to Bermuda on every voyage.

3.—The Furness-Bermuda line has just announced plans for a great new electric liner for this run.

4.—An idea of the growing importance of the Bermuda tourist business may be gained from the fact that in July the Furness-Bermuda line will begin to use the crack transatlantic liner, Veendam, until the new electric ship is ready.

The new Empire State will be turbine-electric driven. Every stateroom will have a private bath or shower, and there will be two big swimming pools on the boat.

Reports from Bermuda are that the islands are enjoying the best season in history.

The connection with Boston with all these facts is as yet only indirect, but far seeing port boosters are beginning to comment that Boston must eventually have its own direct run.

Longshoreman's Gazette

CARL MORRISON, Editor

Vol. 1 No. 6

Ha, ha! The laugh is on Davy Jones, who threatened to sue us for stealing his thunder as first editor of the famous "Longshoreman's Gazette."

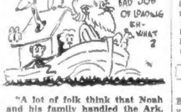
We've just received a letter from "An Old Shellback," who exposes Davy as a black sheep and faker. According to the "shellback," the honor of being the first editor belongs to one Noah, who had a boat called the Ark.

"This first longshoreman," said our informant, "had loading methods which are still in use in Boston."

The old "shellback" took a fling at Davy by saying:

"Some people will do anything for publicity."

The old "shellback," who insists he was an "O. D." on Noah's Ark, further enlightens this generation with some history not printed in the familiar accounts of the voyage.



NOT A BAD JOB OF LOADING EH—WHAT ?

"A lot of folk think that Noah and his family handled the Ark, but this is not so," charges the former sailor of Noah's crew. "Noah had a yacht master's license only, and his sons not being sailors, he had to get his mates and crews outside.

"As it had been printed in the first edition of the Gazette that the Ark was a heavy handling ship, and that Noah had shipped two Western Ocean packet mates, the Shipping Masters were hard put to get a crew for her."

More Superstitions

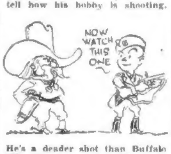
Our feature writer, in his daily assignment, is rather more dignified:

"My topic today is the superstitious dread of old time sailors in regard to having a Finn as a shipmate. The natives of Finland, although recognized as excellent seamen, are believed to have the uncanny power of inducing a heavy gale at will. They were known as 'war-locks' or male witches. A modern day term would be 'hexing,' but of course we are nowadays FINished with such beliefs."

The Cub's Going Strong

Our promising cub reporter today says:

"When I grow up, I am gonna be like Capt. Wallace L. Darling, deputy collector in charge of baggage and mails. I jest hearn tell how his hobby is shooting.



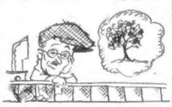
He's a deader shot than Buffalo Bill. He (I mean Capt. Darling), is in the national guard and goes to all the big matches in Camp Perry. If I grow up and am a bad man, I'll know enough to keep away from the darling of the customs service."

Versatile Miss Studley

Robert L. Studley, of Studley and Emery, is back from a three-week vacation at Greensboro, N. C., with Mrs. Studley and daughter, Eleanor. The young women is said to have have displayed form on the golf course fully comparable with the wimming ability she evidenced last year in negotiating the Hellespont.

My Kingdom For—

Members of the Sea Sick Club, attention. This is a good one. A passenger on a British liner recently in port was hanging over the rail. A sympathetic steward promised to bring anything asked by the man.



With a dismal groan, the passenger moaned:

CHICAGO WILL ADOPT HUB PLAN

"Chicago will soon follow Boston in abolishing the office of coroner," said Dr. Herman Bunderson, present coroner of Cook County, Illinois, which includes Chicago. "A coroner has more power than one man should have, and medical examiners like your Dr. Leary and Dr. Magrath have shown that they can render a far better service to the public."

Dr. Bunderson is a member of the N. E. Health Institute, which includes about 4000 doctors, meeting here at the Statler hotel this week. The four-day sessions opened yesterday and Dr. Bunderson will be the main speaker at the banquet tonight.

"It is wrong to refer to Chicago as the badlands," Bunderson declared. "During the past year we have reduced our murder rate 20 per cent, while it has been on the increase in 127 large cities in the United States.

"We have the advantage over the rest of the country in that we know our dirt and are trying to clean it up."

At the banquet tonight a welcome to the out of town guests will be extended by Mayor Curley. Governor Allen will speak on his 14 points in public welfare.

Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States, will present the Sedgwick memorial to Dr. Charles V. Chapin, of Providence, for his accomplishments in public health. This is the first time this medal has been presented here.

New Britain Mayor Sick Abed; Fires 5

New Britain, Ct., April 15 (AP)—The city government here is being directed by a mayor sick in bed in the General Hospital. He is George A. Quigley, who, though ill with bronchial pneumonia, assumed office today, having been sworn in Friday.

His first act was to oust four commissioners of city boards and the police surgeon, all Democrats. He appointed Republicans to their places.

Embezzlement Loss May Reach $122,000

St. Louis, April 15 (AP)—An audit has shown the embezzlement of Oliver D. Chalmers, manager of the traffic department of the Frisco railroad, who has confessed he diverted company checks to his own use for gambling, will amount to "around $122,000," E. T. Miller, vice-president of the railroad, announced today.

Chalmers, at liberty under $40,000 bond, admitted he took the money over a period of four years.

Deny American Girls Held as Spies

Bucharest, Rumania, April 15 (AP)—The Rumanian foreign office today stated that rumors published in Vienna yesterday of the arrest of two American girls at Constanza as spies were entirely unfounded. The home office and chief of police also made similar denials.

Speed Up Boulder Dam

Now Is Time for Congress to Pass Initial Appropriations for Vast Project That Will Put Men to Work

NOW is the time for Congress to pass the initial appropriations to start construction of Boulder Dam and get the economic benefit of putting men to work on a vast public improvement that will not increase taxes.

Boulder Dam will finance itself.

The Secretary of the Interior has worked out at least a practicable plan for disposition of Boulder Dam power. It has been accepted by the agencies in Southern California through which the entire cost of the Boulder Dam project will be repaid to the government.

Details of power contracts in accordance with the accepted plan should be worked out with all possible speed, and the contracts signed. When that is done, Secretary Wilbur immediately will ask Congress for appropriations with which to begin actual construction of the great dam.

He will present to Congress his valid contracts, with the reasons for his confidence that they will yield revenues that will AMORTIZE THE ENTIRE INVESTMENT OF THE GOVERNMENT WITHIN FIFTY YEARS.

Speed in finishing with detail and signing the contracts is ESSENTIAL.

Congress will adjourn about June 1, and unless the request for the Boulder Dam appropriation is made sufficiently early, the project WILL HAVE TO WAIT ANOTHER YEAR.

Desiring to provide for probable future needs of Arizona and Nevada, Secretary Wilbur has reserved for each of them 18 per cent of Boulder Dam power.

As demand arises either State can call for such power as it can use, and if later the need for that power ends it can be returned to the California lessees and claimed again as needed.

Sixty-four per cent of the power is subject to firm contracts between the government and California lessees, not to be affected by "draw-back" calls from outside the State.

Conceiving that after flood protection for Imperial Valley the provision for domestic water needs of Southern California cities will be the most important function of Boulder Dam, Secretary Wilbur has given the right of way to the metropolitan water district in power allocation.

He insists that it must have all the power it will need to pump the full flow of its aqueduct over the intervening mountain hump.

To the metropolitan water district Dr. Wilbur allocates 36 per cent of all Boulder Dam power. In addition, he is awarding the district first call on as much as it needs of the portion of the 36 per cent of firm power which Arizona and Nevada do not use, and also first call on secondary power.

Los Angeles and eleven smaller municipalities will get 19 per cent—the smaller ones getting 6 per cent collectively and Los Angeles 13 per cent.

The Southern California Edison company is allocated 9 per cent for itself and other Southern California private power corporations.

Until the metropolitan water district and Arizona and Nevada use all their power, Los Angeles and the Edison company will divide the unused portions EQUALLY BETWEEN THEM.

The government will install the power machinery.

The Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light will operate power units for itself, the metropolitan water district and the smaller municipalities, and will construct the transmission lines and transmit all of that power.

It is to be remembered that the most vital interest of the city of Los Angeles is in the metropolitan water district, of which it constitutes close to eighty-five per cent in assessed property valuation and in population and water needs. Los Angeles has reason to be satisfied with the Wilbur allocation.

The government and the city of Los Angeles will dominate the power enterprise at Boulder Dam.

On the other hand, the spread of benefits to include the smaller communities, some of them served by the power corporations, will unite Southern California behind the project and insure the financial and economic success of Boulder Dam and the Colorado River aqueduct.

Dr. Wilbur has sought to promote that unity.

We Can Build Them

Morgan Sets Yacht-Building Example

WHEN the House of Morgan was confining itself largely to control of the railroads its busy publicity department promoted the slogan "See America First."

To see America first meant to patronize American railroads, hotels, pleasure resorts; in short, to patronize American capital and American labor.

Mr. Morgan is now reported to be engaged in a race with two other multi-millionaires for "supremacy of the Atlantic" by building the biggest and most palatial pleasure yacht afloat.

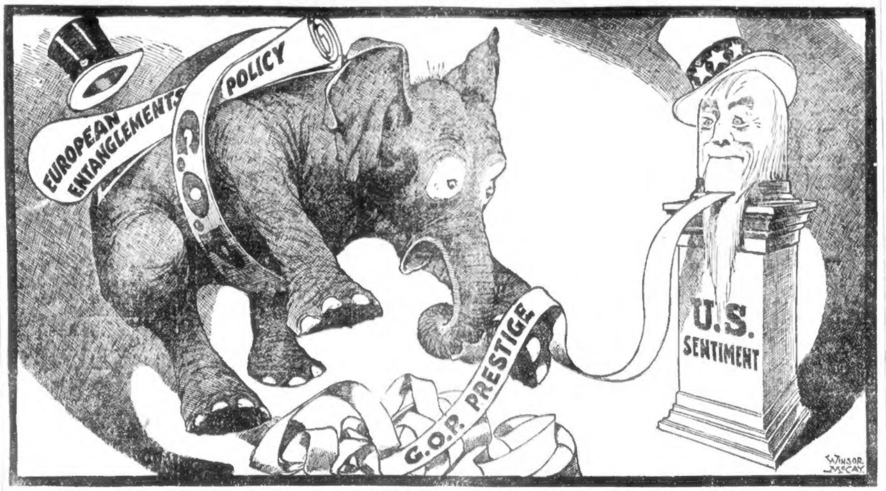
They are patronizing foreign builders. Mr. Morgan elected to have his yacht constructed at Bath, Me. It is a return to the old slogan of America first.

And why not? The seacoast of Maine and New England produced the first sloop-of-war to fly the American flag. Boston produced the frigate Constitution, most renowned battle craft of its day and which even now fires the sentiment of the American public. The international yachting trophy was first won by the fleet yacht constructed in New England and has since been retained by the skill and daring of New England designers, craftsmen and skippers. The men who went down to the sea in ships wrote an imperishable lore for New England.

The finest harbors in America are on New England's seacoast. Boston has the only drydock capable of lodging the mighty Leviathan, and the largest fish pier in the world. Portsmouth is today constructing the most effective submarines for Uncle Sam's fighting fleet and Fore River is this week giving to the Nation the latest addition to its modern cruiser force—the Northampton.

From the day of John Paul Jones and the sloop-of-war Ranger, through the epic period of the New Bedford whalers and until the Leviathan steamed out of Boston Harbor, bearing the finishing touches of local artisans, New England has given the most efficient and most romantic contribution to the naval and maritime history of the country. It can continue to do so if Americans will follow the Morgan example.

ANOTHER SLUMP!



PRESTIGE of the Republican Party has taken a decided slump since President Hoover turned his back upon the traditions of the republic and committed himself and his party to dabbling in European politics.

Twice at the polls the voters have overwhelmingly repudiated the politicians who would have us place the League of Nations' noose about the neck of Uncle Sam.

Fourteen times in Senatorial elections the people have rejected those candidates who urged the entry of the United States into the League, either through the front door or through the back League Court door. The Illinois endorsement of Ruth Hanna McCormick last week was the most recent popular approval of our traditional "No Foreign Entanglements" policy.

But the G. O. P., blinded by the specious pleas of the international busybodies and the international bankers, apparently pays no heed to the popular will.

That's why the Sentiment Ticker above shows a decided slump.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and G. P. Wells

TWO final examples we may note, one from fish, the other from crustacea. Everybody knows what soles and plaice and other flat fish look like, and a great many people are aware of their peculiarity in having both eyes on the one side of their twisted head and in lying flat, not on their belly, but on their side—the opposite side to the eyes.

H. G. Wells

But not so many know that when they hatch out of the egg, flat fish are symmetrical like other fish, swim about in the ordinary upright position, and have their two eyes on different sides of their head like any ordinary vetebrate.

It is only after several weeks that a symmetrical growth distorts the head and eyes, and the animal gradually settles down to its sideways existence.

This is natural enough in the case of a fish which was once free swimming like other fishes but which, generation by generation and age by age, has taken to life upon the bottom, but it is fantastic if we suppose that the plaice and soles were specially created as they are now. Why should they not spawn themselves in miniature?

The most startling example has been reserved to the end. Portunion is the name given to a repulsive parasite found in the gill-cavities of crustaceans, where it devotes all its energies to sucking its host's blood and maturing its own reproductive cells.

In the female sex especially this creature looks much less like a whole animal than like a detached piece of somebody else's internal anatomy. There is nothing to show what sort of a creature it realy is, from what kind of animal it has degenerated.

But in its development it lets the cat out of the bag—or perhaps we should say it lets the sea-woodlouse out of the bag: for when young it is obviously a crustacean, the details of whose anatomy place it at once in the order which contains the familiar slaters and woodlice.

In a previous book we traced an exactly similar story in the parasite Sacculina, which is shown by its larva to be a curiously disguised and degenerate barnacle.

The evidence of the fossils in the rocks is direct evidence for evolution. But the evidence of embryology, though indirect, is more immediate.

You can watch the individual animal indulge in these amazing reminiscences, and pass before our eyes from ancestral primitiveness to adult modernity. All the facts have a simple and straightforward meaning if evolution leaves them unexplained and apparently inexplicable.

It is plainly essential to a parasite like Sacculina that it should have a free-swimming larva, but it is hard to see why that larva should be built so exactly upon the crustacean plan, if Sacculina has no crustacean ancestry.

And a colt safe in its mother's womb until it is born, a well nigh complete miniature of its parents, has no sort of advantages in preceding its backbone by a notochord or producing and reabsorbing gill-arches.

Nor is it some mysterious widespread harmony which requires this rhythm of repetition, because the amount of recapitulation varies with different animals and the story is often blurred and abbreviated. Recapitulation occurs like something done under a powerful and unavoidable inertia of tradition, like something deep in the nature of living creatures.

They recapitulate because they reproduce and because they have been evolved through an infinite series of reproductions from simpler things.

The BAER Facts

—By "BUGS" BAER—

Educational Squabbles

WHEN Darrow and Brookhart debate people come from far and near without getting further or closer.

Naturally, like most of the census, Darrow and Brookhart debate about prohibition, a subject that has just about exhausted its moots.

Their argument is strictly the preamble to a thirst. We have heard this oratorical sunburst several times and we're convinced it's brother act.

Brookhart took the negative in New York but we think he switches when the team gets to a town without a telegraph office.

Darrow is the famous lawyer who traces his ancestry back to a monkey trial in Tennessee.

Brother Clarence lost that case, too. He was ably aided by Deadly Fumes Malone, the international divorce mechanic.

The monkey lost that verdict because Darrow forgot to bring his client into court.

While these two filibusters are arguing pits and hats about prohibition, the Literary Digest has offered a magnificent reward for its apprehension, alive or exhausted.

Both Darrow and Brookhart are very courteous to each other. They realize that their arguments are foolish. But they never forget that they are getting paid for it.

New York audiences are with Darrow. They gave Brookhart the old huckleberries. The audience turned on the steam while Brooky was speaking. That didn't annoy Brookhart because he knows that it is Darrow's turn to get hissed in Georgia and Iowa.

You may tear the argument of a porcupine but you can't kill its points. Darrow and Brookhart have now got all the action scientifically charted. They bow in some states and are kissed in others.

Even the ladies seemed to resent Brookhart's arguments. They know that the boy who hollers wolf never comes home with a silver fox.

But when Brooky gets Clarence in Alabama it is Darrow's turn to listen to the punctured tires. A debate like this can go on until the last ticket is sold. Both boys get a brass ring and are off for another happy ride.

We like to hear them debate because it's the first time we ever heard a senator talking one at a time.

There will be no actual results from this Siamese dialogue. Like Tennyson's brook, it goes on forever and never gets any wetter.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE YOU A MEAN STREAK?

WHY are you mean?

Why do you say catty little things that you don't really want to say? Why do you have these sudden bursts of emotion that are as much of a mystery to you as they are to the other fellow? And why those secret periods of bitterness and melancholy and rage?

Elsie Robinson

"Oh, it's just my disposition," you say despondently. "I've always been like that. Yes, I know it makes me terribly unpopular. And I've tried and tried, but I can't do a thing about it."

* * *

You're wrong on all counts, stranger.

* * *

YOU'RE wrong first in thinking that a disposition is something which is wished on you like measles or relations or other unavoidable afflictions. There's a reason for dispositions—they don't just happen. Like hash, they're ACCUMULATED — ACCUMULATED FROM THE ODDS AND ENDS OF EXPERIENCE.

* * *

When you're born, you have no disposition. But you don't waste any time starting one. Almost with your first squawk, you begin accumulating peeves and prejudices, likes and dislikes. A man with a beard leans over you and gives you a nasty medicine. You kick and yell and claw in rage and fear, but all in vain.

* * *

DOWN goes the medicine. The man with the beard is to blame. Henceforth, men with beards are tangled, in your youthful mind, with feelings of rage and fear. That's the beginning of your "disposition." You find that you can get things or CAN'T get them—if you howl long enough. That's something more toward your disposition.

* * *

Everything that you are, or have, or that happens around you, helps make that disposition. Everything joins that SECRET ACCUMULATION OF MEMORIES and REACTIONS. Some day you will call that whole mass a "disposition" and you will think of it as a WHOLE. But it is really a collection of great and small things which, taken all together, have made you what you are.

* * *

WHY are you mean? Why do you have mysterious rages, fears, despairs? Because, at some time, something unhealthy and unhappy went into that mass, and has been influencing you ever since.

* * *

Disappointment—discouragement—failure—injured vanity—hurt love—shock—grief—these things lie at the root of those strange impulses. Probably you've forgotten the original experience or have failed to understand its full significance. And you think that these mysterious demonstrations are just something that happens—something beyond your control. But they aren't!

* * *

PERSONALITIES can be set in order as well as any other junk pile. You can clean a wart off your disposition as well as you can clean a wart off your hand.

* * *

Have you a mean streak? Then sit down and find out what started that mean streak? What hurt or hunger? Dig into yourself. Go after that First Cause. Drag it out into the daylight. And then, no matter how important it was once, MAKE YOURSELF REALIZE THAT IT IS NO LONGER IMPORTANT—MAKE YOURSELF REALIZE THAT IT IS ALL IN THE PAST AND THAT YOU CAN NOW MAKE LIFE AFTER YOUR OWN PATTERN.

MR. GANDHI, of India, who doesn't believe in violence, is unlawfully making salt. Presumably to sprinkle on the British lion's tail, instead of twisting it.

GANDHI and his followers extract the salt from sea water and if they speed up the process may leave the Britannia-ruled waves flat.

AT last a source of salt has been discovered almost sufficient to flavor restaurant butter.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 15—Mrs. Dorothy Parker seems definitely established as the town wit among the Grade A brand of intelligentsia that flowers in the metropolis. Every snappy mot, Oscar Wilde-ish epigram and nothing-really-matters line is attributed to her.

* * *

Mrs. Parker—Dotty to friends and just Dot to a small circle of intimates—is a fragile-as-spun-sugar type with dark hair and birdlike movements. To the casual, she is a striking exemplar of new feminine freedom. Her conversation is a joyous gurgle and she has a perceptive smile and quick, bright glance.

* * *

YET those who know her say her dazzling facility is superficial—a pose. And underneath this surface exuberance is a great genius which is stressed in the poignant irony of her poetry and prose. The world knows her for such trivialties as "Excuse my dust!"—her suggested epitaph for her tombstone.

* * *

All this, her friends aver, is only a mask of unwinking brightness for emotional depths the world does not understand. Mrs. Parker was born and reared in New Jersey and her first literary efforts bloomed in the pages of Vanity Fair, followed by books of poems attaining remarkable sales.

* * *

When she came back from Europe recently for a brief stay, her arrival was hailed by several poems penned by talented friends. She had been among the Alps hobnobbing with Hemingway and other American writers—"leaping from jag to jag," according to her printed statement to ship news reporters.

* * *

IT was there she gave the finishing polish to her newest book of poems to be labeled "Sonnets in Suicide." She has been besieged by eager magazine editors with offers touching a new price per word, but is politely indifferent to them all.

* * *

Her role as queen of the Manhattan sophisticates, too, has no lure whatever. She greets it with a stifled yawn and has, despite her springy gait of body and mind, become attached to an isolated chalet in Switzerland and there expects to spend much of her time.

* * *

New York's gigolo industry is conducted under a sort of undercover system which might be known as "Dancing men for hire." Certain hotel waiters and orchestra leaders will, upon application, furnish women patrons with names of young men who will hire out as escorts for the evening for $15. Incidental expenses for food and drink are, of course, paid by those engaging them. Dancing academies also supply such companionship. It is claimed they are college students picking up extra money. But in many cases are youths in touch with the underworld.

* * *

THERE are, however, ambitious college students who serve as waiters at the dinner hour in tea rooms. They are paid from $10 to $15 a week and tips.

* * *

One of the collegiate waiters told me the other evening of an incident establishing the truth of a hoary theory no one ever sees a waiter's face. There came to one of his tables an elderly couple. He served them and received a quarter tip. They did not recognize him although he is to marry their only daughter upon graduation this spring.

* * *

A fashion magazine editor—the flatterer—asks me for an article on "The Greatest Need of The Well Dressed Man." My idea would be an evening shirt that would not suddenly balloon and crack like a pistol when you try to bow.

Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

THOUGH a wonder wakes at man's ceaseless quest
Far aught which is far, when the near is best,
It was ever the way of the restless heart
That must seek the things which are set apart;
It [illegible] always a happiness
From the [illegible] elusive which few possess,
It holds that dearest which is [illegible] rare,
Lauds the [illegible] forgets [illegible] the rose is fair
And waits for the nightingale's song in the [illegible]
Though it lack the joy of the meadow lark.

But ever the restless hearts have gone
From vision to vision, on and on;
After they win to one fond desire
They seek for a star [illegible] farther, higher.
And well for man who [illegible] attains
That new hope wakes as old hope wanes,
For it is the restless heart that leads
To triumph ever in dreams and deeds.
